Remote Village In North B.C. Hit by Epidemic

Diphtheria Takes Five Lives; Fifty Cases Reported in Area

An epidemic of diphtheria has been sweeping British Columbia's northland.

Fifty-three cases have been reported west of the Alaska Highway, north of Fort St. John. There have been five deaths.

All but a few of the cases broke out in a remote and primitive Indian village, 180 miles north and west of Fort St. John.

The area is accessible only by sleigh and on foot. Two public health nurses battled the disease there for three weeks. This story of the fight against disease, of long treks through temperatures down to 60 below zero, is a small saga of heroism.

Cases in the Indian village are now believed under control. Latest reports say that all families along the Alaska Highway are being immunized, because of reports from the area that such action was "imperative."

Army and air force personnel in the area are also being given protective anti-toxin.

Nurses Battle Disease, Cold, in Arctic Wastes

Deep in British Columbia's mountain country west of the Alaska Highway lies Halfway Valley, 180 miles north and west of Fort St. John.

In this valley, far from roads or trails, live a squalid, primitive Indian village.

Early in December, an epidemic of diphtheria struck. By the time it was over all but four of a population of 82 had been ill and the funeral pyres had told a grim story.

TERRIBLE CONDITIONS

Into this village went two public health nurses, Miss Wilson, of the Department of Indian Affairs, and Miss Ailzen Bond, Provincial Health Department. They fought a battle against death under conditions that hardly seem credible in the middle of the 20th century.

The story may shock queasy-stomachs, but told in the calm, professional language of an official report to the Provincial Public Health Department, it represents a modern saga of heroism in an often-hostile peninsula.

REPORTED BY RADIO

First report of the disease came by radio from McLeod's Ranch, 60 miles south of the Indian encampment on the Sikanny River, a creek running into the Halfway River.

Miss Wilson flew down from Whitehorse and immediately started into the area by four-wheel drive truck. Leaving the Alaska Highway the truck ran into snow two feet deep, a trail used only by pack horses and sleighs.

She arrived at Borings (see map on Page 3) the next day and heard there was a case of diphtheria in an encampment five miles north. She left immediately on horseback, administered anti-toxin to an adult of 36, but was unable to treat other members of the family because she had only five doses available.

For the arduous trip down the Halfway Valley, the truck was abandoned in favor of a single-horse sleigh. Stopping at Brady's to warm them of the danger of contact with the Indians, she arrived long after dark at what became known as Base Camp (see map) She was accompanied by Bill Boring, a teamster.

In the words of the report:

"It was an old log trading cabin built 30 years ago and still used by the Department of Indian Affairs to store provisions for the trappers in the vicinity. After a short rest to break the lock and thaw out a rickety, rusty old cook stove, she again set out to find the Indian camp four miles back in the mountains.

SAW FUNERAL FIRE

"The camp was discovered by spotting a funeral fire on a nearby hill showing there had been another death that day. When approached at night this forlorn camp presented an eerie sight for it consists of a collection of canvas tepees and a few squalid unchinked rough log shelters. The only signs of life were the multitudes of half-starved miserable hounds and the smoke curling up from the top of the tents. There are no lights in these quarters, so Miss Wilson made her first

Dutch-Led Rebels Quit City

BANDOENG, Java, Jan. 23 (CNS) —The "private army" of Dutch Soldier of Fortuna Capt. R. P. P. Westerling invaded the Indonesian city of Bandoeng today and an official announcement said that 60 Indonesian troops were killed or wounded.

The guerrillas withdrew several hours later.

The Jakarta Government said they were joined by 200 Dutch troops who deserted their posts. The commander-in-chief of the Indonesian forces, Sinsa Tri Pang, said:

"There was really a mutiny by a large number of Dutch forces there."

The lightning raid by Westerling's "Army of the Heavenly Host" was the first rebellion against the month-old Jakarta Government of the United States of Indonesia.

Well-muffled Victorians hustled along snowy streets as a new blizzard whipped the city yesterday afternoon. One of the coldest spots in the city was the Causeway, usually busy but nearly deserted yesterday. Rich atop Legislative Buildings in background is Captain Vancouver weathering the blast with his usual fortitude.

Some motorists pushed through the snow to find their cars wearing thick white overcoats. Photo taken yesterday afternoon shows snow-bound Douglas Street, looking north along sidewalk behind Empress Hotel's garden, as unseasonable sunbeams shine through trees, to make lacework patterns, during an interlude in the storm.

Rush Aid to Woman On Cortes Island

Special to The Daily Colonist

CAMPBELL RIVER, Jan. 23. — A "flying doctor" and his pilot floundered ashore and rushed to the aid of a desperately ill woman on foot after their Canso amphibian was forced down on a mercy flight.

Robert Kerr, B.C. Airlines pilot, learned Monday afternoon that Mrs. J. Weaver of Cortes Island had been stricken by a dangerous internal ailment, and needed treatment at Lourdes Inter-Island Hospital here.

TOOK OFF IN STORM

He took off from Campbell River with Dr. John Dreyer on a bleak, snowstorm driven by a 35-mile wind, over a rough sea with visibility almost zero.

Thick weather forced an emergency landing in the sea near Bre-ford, a village on Cortes Island. Kerr and Dr. Dreyer beached the aircraft and made their way through the snow to Mrs. Weaver's home.

SENT OUT APPEAL

Dr. Dreyer treated Mrs. Weaver and sent out a radio appeal for the flatpacker Captain Roger, crossing in nearby waters, to call at the island.

He considered Mrs. Weaver's condition too bad to risk sea transit on a rough night. He returned to Campbell River aboard the ship.

The pilot remained with his aircraft, which was slightly damaged in landing.

Dr. Dreyer recently arrived at Campbell River from Vancouver, where he was on the staff of Shaughnessy Hospital. He has joined partnership with Dr. N. B. Hall.

Storm Forces Transport To By-Pass Vancouver

Six airline planes and more than 700 travel-weary passengers crowded into Patricia Bay airport yesterday as snowstorms forced transport pilots to use the field as an emergency base.

Three Trans-Canada Airlines planes, chartered to fly passengers and freight from snow-bound trains in the Penticton area to Vancouver, were forced to use the Patricia Bay field when snow storms reduced visibility and covered runways at Vancouver International Airport.

A local flight from Victoria to Vancouver took off early in the afternoon, but was forced to return to Patricia Bay.

A Canadian Pacific Dakota joined the grounded planes late in the afternoon when snow storms forced the pilot to land at the local airport.

Tired passengers who had been delayed for days by snow slides which caused train holdups in the Interior of the province, boarded aboard the twin-engined transport planes.

Weapon Review For Cabinet

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (INS)—President Truman and his Cabinet got a thorough review today of new weapons from the defense chiefs in a secret conference at the White House.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross cautioned against "spectacular" reports that the hour-long session concerned whether the President would reach a decision on authorizing manufacture of the super hydrogen bomb.

Present at the White House with the President were all the Cabinet, led by Defense Secretary Johnson, the secretaries of army, navy and air, and the joint chiefs of staff, along with Gen. John E. Hull, weapons evaluation chief.

Alexander Rudzinski, a member of the Polish delegation to the United Nations, walked out of the Lake Success council chambers in revolt against Soviet domination. Rudzinski, who served as legal adviser to the Polish United Nations group and to the Polish consulate-general in New York, sent a letter to Secretary of State Dean Acheson stating that he has resigned and appealing for sanctuary in the United States for himself and his wife.

To Block U.S. Aid To Franco

PARIS, Jan. 23 (INS). — Exiled Spanish leaders in France have joined a new campaign to keep Spain behind a "moral curtain" and block "help Franco" moves in the United States.

It was learned today the campaign is being spearheaded by Americans for Democratic Action," a United States political organization.

The A.D.A. sent questionnaires to the exiled leaders asking for political, military and economic information concerning Generalissimo Franco and conditions in Spain in preparation for a concerted attack against the Madrid regime to be launched shortly in the United States.

Strong Measures Fail

Claims Canadian Firm Sent Russians Uranium

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (CP)—A Canadian firm shipped 1,000 pounds of uranium compounds to Russia in 1942 although United States atomic authorities had taken "rather strong measures" to shut off such moves, an Atomic Energy Commission official testified today.

The half-ton shipment went through, said Lawrence C. Burman, despite the fact "we thought we had the Canadian supply (to Russia) cut off."

Burman, new director of the commission's licensing division, was associated in wartime with the "Manhattan Project," which turned out the atom bomb. He testified today before the House of Representatives Committee on Un-American Activities.

FOUND OUT IN 1946

His was referring to a consignment of uranium oxides and nitrates from the Canadian Radium & Uranium Company, a sales agency for the Eldorado Mining & Refining Company of Canada, which has mines at Great Bear Lake.

Burman said he did not learn of this shipment until 1946.

Early in 1943 the Russians got 200 pounds of oxide and 220 pounds of nitrate to tell their suspicions about the importance of ur...nium.

After that, the Manhattan Project was told, Russia "was not able to shut off any additional exports. Rallied cars imported every thing connected with uranium from the Canadian Radium and Uranium Co. for the Manhattan Project to "have on hand for a period of a year against any other uranium the company had to sell." The contract was made in March, 1943.

SECOND SHIPMENT

But two or three months later, the Russians got from the Canadian firm, a second shipment of 1,200 pounds of uranium oxide and nitrate. This was arranged through the Canadian Radium and Uranium Corporation.

In spite of the contract, Burman said, the Manhattan Project wasn't notified that 1,000 pounds was for sale. He said it wasn't until five years later, in June, 1942, that he first learned the shipment actually went through. Then he learned it from the Rossa Commission, he said.

Transit Tie-Up Feared as Snow Returns to City

Blizzard Winds, Falling Temperature Send Drivers Scurrying for Chains

Winter howled back into Victoria yesterday, flinging an "off-again-on-again" barrage of snow and ice which threatened to paralyze transit services.

The freakish weatherman brought snow, blizzard winds up to 52 miles an hour, sunshine and eleven degrees of frost in half a day. Snow began to fall at 6:30 a.m. and continued intermittently.

Up until 10:30 last night 3.3 inches of snow had fallen.

Clouds and scattered snow flurries all over the Island were foreseen by Dominion Meteorological Service for today.

The wind whirled round the clock yesterday from gusty west-southwest between 1 p.m. and 4:30 a.m. northwest 18 miles an hour at 10:30.

Gusts whirled snow off the roads in some places, leaving glare ice, while temperature hovered below freezing point and plunged to a daytime low of 23 degrees at 2:30 p.m.

In other places snow lay in thick drifts. Police and highway maintenance men warned that chains were necessary. Public Works Department crews worked through the night with snowploughs.

Victoria city works crews were busy sanding and clearing streets.

Up-Island, Port Alberni reported a seven-inch snowfall yesterday. Temperatures were above freezing most of the day.

Westholme residents evacuated when the Chemainus River threatened to flood their homes moved back in later. There were plans to shift a log-jam at the river's mouth which was damming the water. The river was flowing, a mile from its normal course, through Swallowfield Farm.

Fraser hail and snow fell on Chemainus and other South Vancouver Island points.

J. P. K. English, municipal inspector of schools, said Gyralet Victoria schools will be open today, barring a phenomenal snowfall.

Vancouver Pummelled By Short, Sharp Storm

VANCOUVER, Jan. 24 (Tuesday) (CP).—A swift, short, sharp storm pummelled Vancouver last night, virtually paralyzing the city momentarily and heaping new drifts of snow on the weather-weary community.

The three-hour-long disturbance stalled traffic, stranded homeward-bound citizens and caused all schools and the University of British Columbia to close today.

Then it skipped south toward the border. Snow fell intermittently thereafter here and in the besieged Fraser Valley.

TOWN JAMMED

Bewildered motorists were plunged with cars as thousands of thousands of persons jammed the down-town area where cars were lined up for blocks, slithering and sliding or just standing. The British Columbia Railway Company was stalled but fought back slowly toward normal. Stalled cars impeded their progress commuters waited as long as three hours for them.

An estimated six inches of snow fell during the storm. In suburban areas it piled into two-foot drifts. Especially helpless were residents of the North Shore as buses lagged far behind and cars balked at the approaches to the Lions Gate Bridge.

Visibility was almost nil at times but the weather bureau said they were not classing the blow as a blizzard because temperatures didn't fall. Winds ranged up to 30 miles an hour.

Return of a cold wave with a trace of polar air sweeping across the province ended a threat of floods in the Fraser Valley.

Early today in new RCMP of a 24-car, two-trainman died when an ice and car of a freight train were swept into Seton Lake, 190 miles northeast of here on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

Fire claimed two victims, and a third was killed during the week-end when an avalanche of ice swept down from a school roof.

Trapped in their cab, Engineer Alec L. Munro, 42, and Fireman Harry F. Seymour, 37, both of Squamish, B.C., had no chance to escape when a rock and snowslide roared down the mountainside.

The locomotive and one car disappeared beneath the ice-covered surface of the lake and three other cars were derailed.

For the fourth consecutive day, no trains of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian Pacific Railways entered or left Vancouver.

The battle to clear slides in the Fraser Canyon, 130 miles east of here, continued throughout the day.

Truman Offers Tax Program To Raise One Billion Cash

WASHINGTON, Jan 23 (AP).—President Truman today asked Congress for a host of United States tax changes — $1,000,000,000 a year more from corporations and legacies, a deep slash in seven excise or nuisance taxes, and plugged-up "loopholes" in a series of tax laws.

One aim: To produce a net increase of $1,000,000,000 in annual revenues toward a budget balance sometime in future years.

Congress is eager to cut excise taxes, which are levied on such things as furs, passenger travel, cosmetics and long-distance telephone bills. There is strong talk of rushing through such a bill. But Truman slipped this warning into his tax message: he'll have to veto any such bill which isn't at the same time offset by the same amount of new revenue.

HIS PROGRAM

Here is the way he wants to attack this problem.

Reduce excises "only to the extent that the resulting loss in revenue is replaced by revenue obtained from closing loopholes in present tax laws."

By loopholes, he said he meant the legal ways through which "some groups escape their fair share of taxation." He mentioned laws which he said give big advantages to oil well and mine owners, charitable and educational organizations engaged in business, and life insurance companies.

Truman picked out seven of the long list of excise taxes for cuts "most urgently needed." He did not specify amounts. He mentioned passenger tickets, now taxed at 15 per cent; freight, now 3 per cent; long-distance telephone and telegraph charges, now 25 per cent and all retail or sales excises.

Truman did not mention liquor and tobacco taxes for cuts. Together they produce $3,500,000,000 taxes a year.

TRUMAN'S PLAN

Here is how Truman proposes to get an extra $1,000,000,000 a year:

1. A "moderate" increase in the tax rate on corporation income in excess of $50,000. He said this would hit only 10 per cent of corporations.

2. Reduce exemptions and revise the tax rates on transfers of estate and big gifts. He said this should produce "a substantial part" of the additional $1,000,000,000 taxes.

He included some recommendations for business tax relief. These were:

1. Reducing the taxes on medium-sized corporations "whose continued growth is so essential" to the economy. This would be done by cutting back the tax rate on corporation income between $25,000 and $50,000 from the present 53 per cent rate to the rate above $50,000, which is now 38 per cent.

2. Extend from two to five years the loss carry-forward provisions of the present law. This permits corporations more time for offsetting losses of bad years against profits of later years.

3. Changes to stimulate investment abroad under the Truman Administration's program of developing backward areas.

Says Revenue Of Phone Firm "Siphoned Off"

VANCOUVER, Jan 23 (CP). — Revenue of the British Columbia Telephone Company is being "siphoned off" to the parent Anglo-Canadian Telephone Company and decision on an application for increased rates should not be given until "the most complete details as to intercorporate relations" are furnished, T. O. Norris, K.C., today told the Board of Transport Commissioners.

The board today concluded a two-week hearing on the British Columbia Telephone Company's application for increased rates.

NO CONTRACT

Mr Norris, counsel for Vancouver, said the company had "no contract, no nothing and might continue to set up separate corporations to carry on the "lucrative business" of the company.

There were, he said, "many profitable departments where this might be done—construction, installation of telephones, equipment and real estate."

"This time will come when, if these things are countenanced, there will be nothing left of the company but a skeleton."

$410,000 REVENUE

Study of rate expert Fulton Y Magill showed, he said, revenue of companies servicing the British Columbia Telephone Company and payments of those companies and the British Columbia Telephone Company to the Anglo-Canadian Telephone Company was considered British Columbia Telephone Company revenue and in 1948 amounted to $410,000.

Sen. J. W. deB. Farris, counsel for the company, replied that the study of affiliated companies should have been carried on through 1949 and 1950 to give an accurate picture.

"Wage increases in this year would have wiped out the extra revenue found for 1948."

If the application was not granted, he said, poor service would result.

Conservative Manifesto Due

LONDON, Jan. 23 (CP).—A bid for the support of housewives and the middle class vote was reflected tonight in forecasts of the Conservative manifesto for the February 23 general election.

The Conservative manifesto, made known to 400 party candidates meeting privately in London tonight, will counter the Labor Party's program, disclosed last week. The Conservative manifesto is expected to outline a right-wing picture of full employment, lower taxes, homes for all, and more food.

It is understood that the Conservatives particularly want to ease the burden of taxes on the "family man." The party program will be published Wednesday.

Miners Push Strike In Defi of Union

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 23 (AP).—About 55,000 angry coal miners today turned their backs on union return-to-work pleas and pushed their "no contract, no work" strike into its fourth week.

Nearly 25,000 other soft coal diggers re-entered the pits. Roving pickets, acting in many areas, kept the figure down.

Many locals of the United Mine Workers voted during the week-end to resume production for a fuel-hungry country but were unable to work when pickets showed up in motor cavalcades.

Agents Stop Armed Persons

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (INS).—Secret Service Chief U. E. Baughman said today that his agents have "intercepted armed persons attempting to enter the White House on a few occasions in the last year.

This development came as a Congressional Committee released testimony by Baughman that the Secret Service investigated 1,925 "oral and written threats" against the President's life in the 1949 fiscal year, which ended last June 30.

School Closed Until Spring

ENCHANT, Alta., Jan. 23 (CP).—No school until spring was the prospect today for public school children in this village and district, 40 miles northeast of Lethbridge.

The children have not attended school for three weeks because roads have been plugged tight with snow and school vans have been unable to transport rural children—the bulk of the school's attendance.

A. L. Howg of Enchant said today it was likely the impossible road conditions will exist until spring. About 80 children who normally attend the school were marooned at home.

Outside of train service, the only transportation in the district is by tractor, Mr. Howg said.

Movie Theatre to Be Built In New $1,000,000 Hotel

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., Jan. 23 (CP).—Construction of a $1,000,000 hotel, to be called the Sir Charles M. Hays, will begin here within the next few months, A. A. Armstrong of Armstrong Agencies, said today.

The 100-room hotel also will contain a moving picture theatre.

Architect William Noppe of Vancouver, designer of the Vancouver Hotel, will arrive here shortly to begin plans for the new building.

Armstrong Agencies will also handle properties of a corporation being formed for the conversion of a United States Army administration building here into a 50-suite apartment house. Cost of the project will be about $100,000.

Ousting of Canadians May Lead to Reprisals

OTTAWA, Jan. 23 (CP). — Two non-commissioned officers of the R.C.A.F., ousted from the Canadian legation in Prague, are making their way home along what has become a well-worn trail — the route from Communist-controlled Czecho-Slovakia to Canada.

The Cabinet is expected to await their personal reports on arrival before deciding what to do about the action of the Czech Government in expelling them on what Canada considers baseless and unsubstantiated accusations. The R.C.A.F. said the two, Sgt Reginald Danko of Toronto and Lauder, Man., and Cpl J. O. Vanier of Rochebaucourt, Que., should arrive this week.

The fact that the United States, United Kingdom and France have all retaliated against iron curtain countries for similar expulsions buttresses speculation that the Canadian Government will ask that some members of the small Czech legation here leave the country.

Meanwhile, Frantisek Nemec, the man who quit as Czech ambassador to Canada at the time of the Red coup in Prague two years ago, told a reporter here that he recently finished his work with Canada's immigration department.

His job was to help those Czechs who fled their native country and came to Canada. He said 1,800 of them in all figuratively took the trail that Danko and Vanier now are taking, only they were fugitives.

No detailed reports of the charges against the two Canadians have been received but they are believed to cover such things as spying and consorting with anti-Government elements.

Sgt Danko and Cpl. Vanier both branded them false when they reached Germany.

Union Plans To Jam Dials

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP).—A C.I.O. union threatening a country-wide telephone strike disclosed today a novel plan to jam dial systems and make the strike effective.

The idea is to have the public and fellow union members flood Bell Telephone Company switchboards with calls, should the strike start, in the hope that automatic equipment will break down.

Joseph A. Beirne, president of the Communications Workers of America, outlined the strategy in a letter to C.I.O. President Philip Murray. Beirne told Murray that Bell phone companies are balking at C.W.A.'s wage-pension demands and said a big strike seems inevitable.

"At this writing I see no way to avoid it," Beirne wrote Murray. He said about 100,000 phone workers, including the men who maintain the automatic equipment, are in a position to strike right now and another 150,000 will be ready to strike February 1.

Victoria Girl Helps Government In War Against Illicit Narcotics

OTTAWA, Jan. 23 (CP).—A young research chemist and his assistant at the food and drug division of the Health Department are helping Canada play an important part in curbing illicit trade in narcotics in the world.

Dr Charles G Farmilo, 32, of Edmonton, as chief of the Organic Chemistry and Narcotics section, is responsible for testing and establishing whether materials seized by the Mounties contain narcotics.

With his assistant, Miss Pat Kennett of Victoria, a two-fold job is carried out in the laboratory.

First the information supplied by the section is often used as testimony in court cases against persons charged with illegal possession of drugs.

Then the section co-operates with the narcotics control division of United Nations, dedicated to stamping out illegal drug trade in the world.

Dr. Farmilo, a graduate of McGill and University of Alberta, told in an interview how the section contributes to this campaign.

An average of about ten seizures of suspected narcotics are sent to him each month. While testing for the presence of drugs, the section is also attempting to discover just where the narcotic originated.

Major producers of opium are Yugoslavia, Turkey, India, Korea, Japan and Manchuria. The alkaloid content of opium originating from each of these countries differs sufficiently to provide a means of determining the source.

Dr Farmilo is experimenting on possible new and better ways of determining origination of the narcotics. But at the same time he is passing on information to the United Nations.

When United Nations gets enough evidence to indicate that illicit drug traffic from a country is becoming dangerous, it confronts the country with the evidence and asks what is going to be done about curbing the traffic.

This system, in which other United Nations countries are co-operating, is believed to have been "reasonably successful," said Dr. Farmilo.

CHERTSEY, Surrey, England, Jan. 23 (AP).—Ernest Evans is eight feet, six inches tall. He weighs 434 pounds.

And he's flat on his back—on two beds placed end to end—in St. Peter's Hospital here. He is the biggest case St. Peter's ever had.

Evans was trucked in for a minor knee operation. It took 11 male nurses to move him.

The staff couldn't figure out a good way to lift him unconscious on to the operating table. He had to climb on himself and then take the anaesthetic.

Two Nurses Battle Cold, Epidemic in Northland

tour of inspection among these suspicious and frightened primitives armed with a nursing bag and flashlight.

USED PAIR OF PLIERS

"On first inspection, a superficial one, she found three acutely ill patients. Two had almost complete membranes covering their throats and the third that day had had his membrane removed by another Indian who had reached in with a pair of pliers and extracted the complete membrane which he was saving as a souvenir.

This patient's life was definitely saved by this operation, but he died two weeks later after being sent to Edmonton.

"Miss Wilson immediately administered all the anti-toxin she had left. .

BEYOND DESCRIPTION

"The primitiveness of this camp is beyond description. What houses there were had no floors or windows and the single room which housed a whole family had no other furnishings other than cotton blankets on the ground and the one tin stove with a black pot in which all food was prepared and eaten. They have no cooking or eating utensils, extra bedding, no extra clothes. Because they have all been so sick and worried they had hardly any wood or food. The women are wholly responsible for wood and water. The men bring in the food under ordinary circumstances.

INHABITANTS INFESTED

"All the inhabitants were infested with vermin.

"Her inspection completed, Miss Wilson returned down the mountain to base camp where the teamster and she had their first meal of hard tack and frozen 'bully beef'."

The base camp too was on the primitive side for a lady in the wilderness.

"There were two stoves of sorts, a sleeping bench at one corner, a trading counter between the two stoves and rough planking here and there over the floor. Pack rats, squirrels and weasles shared our quarters and our food.

NEVER ABOVE ZERO

"For the full three weeks that this project was in operation it was never above zero and for days at a time it was 40 to 60 below. Besides the extreme cold we had two blizzards, through which we traveled and nearly every evening a bitter wind would rise just as the nurses were returning from the Indian camp."

(Miss Bond joined Miss Wilson December 24).

The report next deals with the difficulties of obtaining anti-toxin and praises the co-operation of the R.C.A.F. in flying in supplies.

PARCEL BUMPED

"Anti-toxin was first ordered (by radio) from Vancouver but due to heavy air-freight traffic our much needed parcel was bumped at Prince George and didn't arrive for another two days. The service from Edmonton, however, was wonderful. . . .

"The base camp by the evening of December 20 took on a better air and became quite a hive of industry. Attempts were made to chink the building with ice and snow. Wood was cut and lamps replaced the two hoarded candles. By this time the agent and his winch man were there, plus the teamster who had brought in Miss Wilson. In addition Ted Green, who owned the cabin and a neighboring homesteader had arrived to offer assistance. Quarters were somewhat crowded.

HACKED OUT TRAIL

"Miss Wilson made daily trips to the Indian camp on snowshoes until a trail wide enough for a team and sleigh could be hacked out of the bush. There was no place nearer for her to make her headquarters and the ordeal of that trip up and down the mountain was as hard as anything else experienced.

"The suspicion and apathy of the Indians were other ordeals to overcome. They are definitely hostile to white assistance and great credit is due the nurse for making the wonderful headway she did knowing no Beaver language and the few interpreters being down with diphtheria.

THREE HAD DIED

"During the next three days she was able to gain their confidence enough to learn that three people had died at this camp. The first old lady of 60 had choked to death at the end of October or perhaps the first week in November.

"Ten days later 'ebbrybody' sick and another girl, aged ten, died. 'She just go black in face and no breathe.'

"Stories of how the epidemic spread varied at every wigwam but it appears that three or four got sick each week from then on and remained sick because of complete absence of medical care."

TRACES HISTORY

Miss Bond then traces the medical history of some of the cases and the deaths resulting, and speaks of her own arrival, December 24.

"We visited each domicile, after removing our traveling gear at the chief's house. Penicillin and anti-toxin were kept from freezing by being strapped to our bodies, and syringes and needles were all prepared overnight at base camp; boiled in water and autoclaved by baking to remove any moisture which might freeze in transit.

DAILY EXAMINATION

"Every throat had to be examined daily, including our own. Those who showed the characteristic gray coloring were given 20,000 units of anti-toxin and 30,000 units of penicillin. Those under treatment were given a daily dose of 30,000 units of penicillin and a hot drink of either brandy and sugar or bovril which we brought up each day.

"Often this was the patients' only nourishment until food was shipped in ten days later by team . . .

"On Christmas Day candy was issued to all the children and snoose to the adults. We nurses felt that a good meal would have been more in order but we were not responsible for the handouts.

TECHNIQUES SUFFERED

"Nursing techniques suffered considerably. It is not the easiest thing to look professional in Arctic regalia crawling into a teepee on hands and knees and having to squat on the saliva-spattered ground while the smoke from the bonfire slowly blinds one. However, let it be said there were no abscesses in spite of administering over 200 shots of penicillin in wax; neither were there complaints of soreness from the treatment.

"Our favorite expression soon became 'Kloot-na-Kloon' which is Beaver for 'too much smoke,' and it was flattering to enter these wigwams and be greeted with 'Chai-wootcha' which is 'good woman,' meaning we were making them better and they were glad."

Miss Bond again refers to the conditions at base camp.

"Fresh food supplies were always uncertain and the extra people to be fed and accommodated was at times a definite strain. Lack of privacy in a one-roomed cabin was in no way conducive to cleanliness or good feeling among such a miscellaneous group, and one or two who refused to do their share around the camp often produced a rather strained atmosphere.

"Sanitary facilities were non-existent.

APPRECIATED HELP

"We certainly appreciated Angus Beatton, who became our guide and teamster after Bill Boring left on December 20. Angus was more than a teamster. With his quiet, gentle ways, he made existence at the base endurable by fetching water and wood without being asked, heating the sleigh with heated rocks, and instructing the nurses on forest lore of the North. His patience, kindness and tact with two headstrong women in tow was an example to all the camp.

"Great credit is due Miss Wilson for the salvation of so many lives and the welfare of the camp. She proved a capable leader, cheerful companion, excellent nurse, ingenious cook, an accomplished musician, and even barber and dentist when required."

AIDED OTHER FAMILIES

The report goes on to describe side trips as far as 60 miles to immunize other families in the area in temperatures ranging from 40 to 54 degrees below zero, of spending nights in a sleigh, warmed by hay and hot rocks.

On January 4 the party left base camp. No new cases had been breaking out, all the Indians on the Creek had been immunized and supplies were giving out.

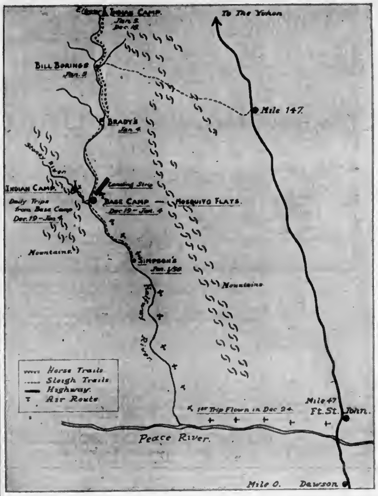

Between accounts of visiting other families along the long route back to the Alaska Highway, Miss Bond records with satisfaction a good meal en route.

"Managed to catch four rabbits in a snare and was given a trout by the Indians. So we suppered that night on rabbit stew and had trout for breakfast next morning before leaving on the last leg of the journey."

After arriving back at Fort St. John "cold, dirty and weary," the two nurses learned another case had broken out at Stoney River Indian camp. Miss Wilson prepared to return. A plane that was to take her smashed its tail on take-off. Instead she was taken to Mile 147 on the Alaska Highway by car, then by dog team back to Boring's.

The report says that Miss Wilson hoped to return by the end of the week, when the two nurses planned to meet at the Yukon border to travel down the Highway immunizing all the residents. The army and air force wanted immunization, too.

Where Two Nurses Battled Death in Wild Mountain Area

Map above shows Indian camp at Stoney River, where death from diphtheria decimated an Indian tribe living in primitive squalor. Two nurses fought the plague in cold ranging down to 60 below, and lived for weeks in a broken-down cabin. One nurse traveled in by sleigh from Mile 147, the other flew in from Ft. St. John to the place labelled Base Camp, from where they had to travel on foot through bitter cold to the Indian camp.

Planned Oak Bay Light System Four Times Intensity of Old

Oak Bay Council is presently carrying on negotiations for installation of an improved street lighting system which would increase the existing lighting four times its present intensity.

Although it is hoped to place the project before the ratepayers in the form of a money by-law this year, there is a possibility the program may have to be postponed until next year because of an anticipated heavy budget.

When estimates are completed, council is expected to hold a discussion on the possibility of putting up a money by-law this year.

Officials believe the time has come when the property holders should endorse an expenditure for street lighting to bring Oak Bay up to the standards of modern residential communities.

A street lighting scheme originally was intended to be planned in 1949 but severe rainfall and subsequent flooding resulted in a money by-law being presented for a drainage project instead. It was felt adequate drainage at that time was more pressing than the proposed lighting project.

LOTS ON MARKET

Eighteen 60-feet frontage lots on Allenby Street, off Foul Bay Road, have been placed on the market by Oak Bay Council, A. D. Findlay, municipal clerk, said yesterday.

Sale price on the lots is $800. The area previously was on the reserve list as a park area but since the municipality's purchase of the Willows fairgrounds it was felt unnecessary to hold these lots. The Willows subdivision will contain a large park area.

Also up for sale by the municipality are four lots on Cadboro Bay Road near the entrance to the fair grounds. Cost is $900 each.

Council hasn't yet set a policy on when lots on the new Willows subdivision will go on sale.

AMERICANS CAN APPLY

Citizenship is no bar to persons wishing to make application for the post of Victoria city manager, it was learned at City Hall yesterday.

While council did not advertise for a city manager in the United States, several queries about the post have been made by American citizens. They will be informed that their American citizenship is no bar against applying for the top civic office here.

A total of 69 requests for city manager application forms have now been made at City Hall from prospective applicants in communities across Canada.

Only eight actual applications have been filed.

Deadline for receipt of applications is February 22.

Long-Awaited Works Projects May Start for City This Year

Greater Victoria district may see a start on some of its long-awaited Public Works projects this year.

The $1,000,000 diversion of the Island Highway from Langford Lake into Victoria was scheduled to start this year in the $30,000,000 road program outlined by Works Minister E. C. Carson at the last session of the Legislature.

The project was first definitely promised by Premier Byron I. Johnson in 1948 during a speech at a nomination convention in Saanich.

MINISTER'S PLAN

At that time the Minister said the 11-mile section leading from Langford Lake to the city would be diverted to run from Burnside Road and Tillicum, along Portage Inlet and then cutting some distance north of the Island Highway past Thetis Lake and Florence Lake to join up with the present highway north of Langford Lake.

No appropriation was indicated last year for the long-awaited express highway to Patricia Bay Airport. The Federal Government agreed in 1948 to pay $4,000 toward the cost of surveying a new route. Just before the Federal election in June, Fisheries Minister Mayhew said the Dominion had agreed to pay half the cost of construction.

This also was one of the projects outlined by Premier Johnson in 1948.

A third project was a survey of the Saanich Peninsula to determine the feasibility of irrigation. This was to include an engineering survey. Up to now the Department of Lands and Forests has been studying reports previously made on the subject.

Total cost of mental sickness and its complications in Canada is close to $500,000,000 a year.

Heavy Snowfall Ominous Sign of Spring Floods

ALTHOUGH British Columbia's precipitation tests have not yet been completed, it is fairly general knowledge that unusually large amounts of snow fell in many areas this Winter involving the coastal ranges. As this was the condition that was at the back of the disastrous Fraser Valley and other floods of 1948, more than usual interest will be taken in the snow and other tests when they are reported. Mountain sections of the province have been reporting heavy snow for several weeks; a precipitation which, including parts of Vancouver Island, seems to have been about as heavy as it has been within recent memory at least.

It was just such a start as this, coupled with the warm nights and a continuous 24-hour run-off in late Spring, which laid waste large areas in the valleys and deltas of three major British Columbia rivers two years ago. The most important of these areas unquestionably is the Fraser Valley, where diking precautions have been taken. If the snow checks bear out the general impression of heavy snowfall it will be the signal to get busy on all dikes, for by late May or early June flooding again can be expected.

Since the serious floods of two years ago nothing has changed the course of the Fraser River, nor eased the conditions under which it must take care of its overflow. Stronger dikes and more of them are merely barriers to the river, but not its "breathing spaces." For 20 years or more, former swamps and natural overflow basins have been progressively reclaimed from the river. The great flood of 1948 was the river's reaction, and essentially that condition has not been altered. While the precipitation tests will be a necessary check in any event, it is not too soon to think about the possible consequences along about May or June. From every known indication, they are ominously in the making

Load and Speed Limits Essential During Thaw

LIMITATIONS imposed by the Saanich Council on truck loads and speeds may appear somewhat drastic, but experience has shown how necessary they are in time of thaw. The widespread damage that was caused to road surfaces last year and the year before when the frost began to work out of the ground should be fresh in the minds of everyone who used the highways in Spring and Summer.

The Saanich authorities have gone the length of restricting truck operation to half the normal pay load capacity and the maximum speed to 25 miles an hour. In addition they have warned trucking firms of the possibility of further curtailment—even total prohibition of freight haulage in some cases—if the initial limitations fail to prevent the roads breaking up. It is only a matter of time before similar restrictions, applied annually by the Public Works Department, go into effect on provincial highways.

The hope is that this stitch-in-time policy will save the roads of Saanich from the extensive disintegration that occurred last Spring, damage that not only made traveling difficult and uncomfortable for local motorists, but also remained largely unrepaired far into the tourist season. The restrictions may cause some hardship, particularly in cost of operation under reduced loads; but it is better for everyone, themselves included, that truck operators should suffer temporary inconvenience than that the highways should be torn to pieces

Co-operation on the part of private-car drivers, too, can go a long way towards keeping the roads in fit state for traffic and saving the taxpayers a heavy bill for repair of damage

A Dangerous and Debatable Prerogative

IF a vote were to be taken on euthanasis, a subject revived because of an alleged "mercy-killing" case now before American courts, it seems likely the public would be against it. When it comes to arbitrarily deciding that a life should end there must be few individuals who would not shrink from assuming such a grave responsibility. Undoubtedly there are instances when death might be a merciful release from prolonged suffering that cannot be eased, yet instinct recoils from the deliberate act of euthanasia.

Even though opinion on the subject is divided in medical circles, one supposes that profession would not desire the onus to rest there in the final analysis. Nor, in fact, is it probable that the public would agree that it should. Families claim natural and proper priority of interest in the ill-health of those who belong to them, as witness their present right to authorise or refuse post-mortems. They will not readily concede that claim even to a profession they respect and depend on.

The higher ethics of this problem is something that each conscience must relate to its own concept of Divine creation, and in this connection it is a fact that society takes upon itself the deliberate prerogative of death dealing in war and in criminal punishment. Beyond that, however, it would be unsafe and a vain presumption to go. In theory euthanasia may be regarded sincerely as an act of mercy in specific cases; in practice it is both dangerous and an invasion of rights that may not belong to humanity.

POSITION OF CHINA

Sir,—China has never willingly been anybody's vassal, and today is in a better position to resist Soviet Russian aggression than she was to resist the Western powers in the past century. The United States is making a fatal mistake in its treatment of the government of Mao Tse-tung. American policy is driving Mao into the arms of Soviet Russia. Canada is being dragged in the wake of this disastrous policy. Britain and India have recognized the Communist Government. Perhaps the statesmanship of Britain and the Commonwealth countries will yet rescue the world from the mess into which the action of Russian and American chauvinists is dragging it.

A TRIBUTE

Sir,—Don't you think a word of appreciation and thanks is due to the "trouble-shooters" and other stalwarts of the gas company for their hard and cheerful work during the past week or more?

They have been out in all this bitter weather, day and night, servicing gas equipment after it had to be turned off; checking frozen meters and frozen mains (one of the most obstinate troubles), and assisting us consumers cheerfully. The area covered by them was from Craigflower, across to Lake Hill, and over to the confines of Oak Bay.

Several days this week they have worked from 8 a.m. till 6 a.m. the next day, with only a catnap of three to four hours and a few minutes for snatching a quick bite or cup of coffee. And this is still going on.

So surely it is up to us consumers to avoid a repetition of this trouble by reducing our gas consumption to an absolute minimum.

So hats off to the "trouble-shooters," and hats off to their "gas widows," who have not known when their menfolk would be called out, or at what hour of the night or early morning they would be home again.

The Cane-Bottom'd Chair

In tatter'd old slippers that toast at the bars,
And a ragged old jacket perfumed with cigars,
Away from the world and its toils and its cares,
I've a snug little kingdom up four pair of stairs.

To mount to this realm is a toil, to be sure,
But the fire there is bright and the air rather pure;
And the view I behold on a sunshiny day
Is grand through the chimney-pots over the way.

This snug little chamber is cramm'd in all nooks
With worthless old knicknacks and silly old books,
And foolish old odds and foolish old ends,
Crack'd bargains from brokers, cheap keepsakes from friends

Old armour, prints, pictures, pipes, china (all crack'd),
Old rickety tables, and chairs broken-back'd:
A twopenny treasury, wondrous to see:
What matter? 'tis pleasant to you, friend, and me . . .

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

IF somebody says you're complacent and you don't feel one bit complacent, how are you going to correct his opinion? By running twice around the block so he'll see you're not sunk in lethargy?

It's so easy to make sweeping condemnations.

The other day, now, The Canadian Press business editor came out with:

"Canadians live in a sort of dream world come true. They take it for granted they should have the highest standard of living in the world, with the exception, perhaps, of the United States."

Nonsense! They may be enjoying the second highest living standard extant, but they don't take it for granted. Plenty of them have started to worry enough about the next few years

Anyway, what are people in the mass supposed to do about good fortune—refuse it? Is it going to help anyone else if Canadians stop accepting refrigerators, radios, motor cars, modern plumbing, and fresh vegetables in season?

These things are not handed them on a platter, remember. They work—maybe not so hard as they might, but just as diligently as others elsewhere—so they may have these things. It's a great pity that all other nationals aren't equally fortunate, but surely that's not the fault of the Canadian people!

If it is, let The Canadian Press business editor show us how this comes about

* * *

During the war, visiting lecturers were wont to thump the same tune, and an unfair melody it was.

The Pacific Coast, for instance. No bombs fell here, but you would have thought that was Victoria's fault instead of the Japs'. Time and again someone would rear on his hind legs and say we didn't know there was a war on, or that we took life too easily, or that we should experience a real blackout, and so on.

This was libel, as many a sorrowing parent had cause to know, but what were we supposed to do to show our war consciousness? Jump around in a frenzy of stupid effort?

There was a rather famous visiting broadcaster, too, unfortunately killed later in the war, who seemed shocked when he came to Canada and found that matches were given away—for free—in this country!

In some other countries matches were rationed, but was that the ordinary Canadian's responsibility? Should Victorians, for example, have rushed immediately to the Inner Harbor and dumped their supply?

You cannot condition people to a state of affairs that does not exist around them. That's what these fault-finders forget.

* * *

Canadians don't live in a dream world. They are a reticent race and don't shout much from the housetops, but that doesn't mean they take everything for granted.

The average Canadian knows that he's lucky to be living in Canada, but he can't very well crawl around apologetically just because things happen to be tough for other people in other lands.

If he could he'd help them, and he does when he gets the chance. That's established on the record, and it's not patting the Canadian back to say so.

But, willy-nilly, the ordinary person must take life as it comes. The fates have determined in large measure that Canada should be spared the horrors of war and the poverty war has brought to folks just as worthy as Canadians, and just as deserving of a good standard of living.

The bad breaks might come our way some time, however. And if history is any guide, they will. It will be up to us then to prove we can take them with stoicism, even if fate reverses things so that our comforts lessen as those of others increase.

Meantime, Canadians can hardly be blamed for a living standard that's the envy of most other countries, any more than the man across the street can be blamed for not breaking his leg because you broke yours.

Surrender of Liberty

By RAYMOND MOLEY

NEW YORK.—In a preceding column I described the sad fate of the good word "liberal" and suggested the word "neo-liberal" as an appropriate name for one who advocates greater state power. The term "liberalism," as it was once used in England and elsewhere, was applied to a movement and later to a party that fought for the individual against the state.

Most noteworthy among the theories of the neo-liberal is a claim lifted bodily from Marxian Socialism. That claim is that the state, by taking away personal liberties temporarily, can return them with compound interest later. In short, by setting up a dictatorship, the objective of a democracy can be achieved

That, of course, is not true. It never happens. And the facts of human nature are such as to deny that it ever can happen. When people give up rights, they give power to those who govern them. And government power, whether vested in a king or in a political machine, can never be broken except through superior force either by revolution or at the polls

Secretary of Agriculture Brannan has a plan by which the farmer, in surrendering his present liberties, can presumably get great future reward, stability and perfect liberty. Let us see what is proposed and consider how it may end if adopted.

The farmer is promised an income equivalent or equal to what he received in the first ten of the last 12 years. In 1950, under the plan, he would get the average income of the years 1939-1948. The mathematical rigmarole by which this income is determined required for this writer three or four days of study. No doubt, there are those who could master it in a few hours but, at this moment, I cannot think of any such wizards. At any rate, it is an exceptionally complicated idea and it lacks the very essence of a democratic idea, which should be something that most people can understand.

But under this planned income idea, the farmer is to get great benefits.

However, since Mr. Brannan, as well as everybody else, knows that among all groups there are a few knaves and chiselers, the plan involves a vast machinery of administration, enforcement and penalties. This is to be operated by the Secretary of Agriculture. The Brannan bill runs to about 86 pages. Fifteen or 20 pages deal with enforcement and penalties. One section is almost unbelievable. It provides that the Secretary shall, before assigning benefits, review the "personal history" of the prospective beneficiary! His latitude in this is unmeasured for, in addition to various economic factors, he may go into "other factors required to be considered."

The provisions for fixing marketing quotas constitute most of the 86 pages of the bill. Altogether, they would reduce the farmer to a well-kept serf.

* * *

Ultimately, of course, subsidies will mount on subsidies, because the promise in the bill is to keep prices low. Finally, as in all economic pyramiding, the thing will break down. The general economy will not stand the strain. Or the rest of the taxpayers, who constitute a very large majority of the people of the country, will vote into office people who will stop the subsidies. Then the farmer will be left with the low prices and the necessity to begin all over to build a free market.

Neither Secretary Brannan nor any other ruler can take away liberty and return with it more liberty. It is not so ordained in human nature.

Neglect of Universities

(From The Citizen, Ottawa)

PROBABLY most Canadians are not aware that opportunities for higher education of their children are less generous now than five years ago. Yet Dr. F. Cyril James makes this fact clear in his annual report as principal of McGill University. He points out that attendance at a university costs the student much more than formerly—twice as much as in 1939, according to one estimate. Though enrolments have risen, expansion of educational facilities has not kept pace. Dr. James describes the circumstances as "a national problem which all Canadians must face." To solve it, a greater proportion of the national income must be spent on higher education.

The problem is a national one because the universities serve all Canada. They and their graduates are expected to contribute increasingly to the expansion of Canada's research activities, industry, trade and social welfare. Britain has recognized the importance of universities in its struggle for post-war recovery and a brighter future. Its grants to these institutions have been large, and public funds are aiding 70 per cent of their students

Since the war, average university expenditure per student has increased 33 per cent in Britain and 22 per cent in the United States. But in Canada it has dropped 16 per cent.

The case of McGill is instructive. Academic admission requirements have been raised, fees have been raised, the proportion of veterans in attendance has dropped. Yet an enrolment figure that was 3,429 in 1939-40 is now a record-breaking 8,240. For three sessions McGill has resorted to deficit financing to cope with this overcrowding and develop several scientific projects of importance to all Canada. But as Dr. James says, to continue this policy would be suicidal.

Only 5 per cent of McGill's income is derived from Government grants. All universities are faced with the need for greater public assistance. A responsibility rests upon the Federal Government to help solve this national problem.

OLD MEANIES

Life in Ogoja, Nigeria, as reported by The Spectator Daily, Gold Coast newspaper:

"Three persons who admitted being witches, dragged themselves before the magistrate today over a dispute on the share-out of the flesh of their human victims. Aganyor Mose accused Ela Eboh and Tarkom Eyim of partaking with him of the flesh of his late brother, whom he killed through their cult. He was aggrieved because in return, neither of the two had contributed his share but rather asked him to contribute yet another person. This he considered as being grossly unfair to him, and so he had to bring the matter to the public for justice. Tarkom Eyim confessed that he, at times, transformed himself into a frog and ate crabs."

"HOW about tossing a few more lumps of coal into the furnace? We are just about freezing to death upstairs," the tenant of the top floor of a dwelling said to the landlord a few days ago. "I know it's cold outside. It's hard to get heat up with that cold northeast wind blowing," the landlord replied. "It is just as cold inside. My thermometer registered 28 degrees. You must do something about it," the tenant complained. "Perhaps your thermometer is not very accurate. Take this one and try the temperature. It is accurate within half a degree," the landlord answered, handing over his thermometer. Fifteen minutes later the tenant raced downstairs with the thermometer in his hand and remarked with considerable sarcasm: "Look. This shows 26 degrees" . . . A humorist employed at H.M.C. Dockyard telephoned the general office of the British Columbia Liquor Control Board and chirped: "Hello, is that the liquor board? Be sure to keep good fires going in all your stores and warehouses. None of us wants to see your watered stocks freeze" . . . From a Yale Street reader: "As a scientist, I express to you the opinion that our Winter weather can be expected to get a little worse each year for the next seven years. All those whose well-being and responsibilities are affected by such eventualities should accept such foreknowledge as a warning, and adapt themselves, their plans, actions or services to a maximum possible extent to meet the situation. Precautions must be taken in order that our normal standard of living, comfort, services and economic life shall be disrupted as little as possible, and cause the least possible inconvenience, suffering and hardship to mankind. I am developing a scientific thesis of major importance to the world's statesmen, scientists, engineers, and the whole human race."

The Packsack

By GREGORY CLARK

ONE of the main down-town merchants of San Antonio, Texas, is doing some reconstruction work that obliges him to tear up the street in front of his store, thus causing not a little public inconvenience and traffic delay

Instead of a barricade of dirty old planks, he has erected a rather attractive little architectural pagoda over the excavation. It has design. It is charming. He has painted it pale blue; and on it, a first-class artist has done a series of humorous cartoons depicting the very confusion, the traffic jams, the bumping citizenry, which the big unseen hole in the pavement is actually causing. You take it in, in a glance, and are instantly amused.

And besides being amused, you at once cast a kindly thought at the merchant who went to all this trouble to apologize, humorously and amiably. You do not even have to tell yourself that here is a store you would enjoy shopping in. It is automatic. It is about the smartest sort of advertising that could be conceived; and it is a wonder that our down-town merchants are not all busy with alterations that would involve tearing up pavements, in order to seize the opportunity for so pleasant a piece of promotion.

Being a modest sort of buffoon myself, I may be prejudiced; but it does seem to me our advertising men and public relations counsels are a little inclined to be formal, if not actually stodgy. The average woman does not buy a fur coat or a new kitchen gadget with an air of solemnity. Buying anything new is nearly always the occasion of laughter, delight, amusement. Jokes accompany the arrival home of a new car, a piano, a dress, hat, dog, toaster, chesterfield suite, umbrella, traveling bag.

Advertising and promotion rarely catches the faintest hint of this gaiety of purchase. Purchasing is strictly an undertaking; and the merchant and his advisers are undertakers.

25 YEARS AGO — At midnight last night, Chinatown said farewell to the old Chinese year and welcomed in the new with traditional displays of fireworks, chants and beating of drums.

Tito-Manoeuvred Rift In Italian Reds Seen

—Interpreting the News—

By JAMES M. LONG
A.P. Foreign Affairs Analyst

ROME, Jan. 23 (AP).—Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia, who shook his own country loose from the Cominform, is believed here to have approached the Italian Communist Party to persuade it also to break with Moscow.

How far Tito's influence has carried into Italy's two-million-strong Communist Party is not known. However, reports of scattered expulsions from the party for "Titoist activities" began to appear in the Communist press a month ago.

PURGE ORDERED

Since then Italy's Communist commissars have ordered a "severe purge" and vigilance against "spies and traitors." The newspaper Il Milan said the purge had been ordered by Moscow specifically because of "deviations toward Titoism."

Any such rift in the Red ranks would be welcomed by Italy's anti-Communist elements. And it would add considerable to Tito's prestige in his own country, caught in a Cominform wedge closed except for the 75-mile long Italian-Yugoslav border.

That frontier is Tito's only corridor to the West. And it is to the West that he must look now for what aid he needs and for the trade and economic ties which the Cominform countries severed.

RELATIONS IMPROVED

Foreign diplomatic observers here point out there already has been a marked improvement in Yugoslav-Italian relations. For weeks there have been no reports of border incidents. A mixed commission now is working on the actual frontier demarcation. Fishing rights have been negotiated and settled.

The Cominform would resist bitterly any move to lure away the Italian Communist Party, second in membership only to Russia. Thus far Italian Communist-led labor demonstrations, strikes and disorders in France and Italy in the last few weeks are regarded by most foreign diplomats here as co-ordinated efforts ordered from Moscow as a new test of strength.

ARMS AID TEST

It is only preliminary, however. The real test will come soon—when the first of American arms aid begins to reach the ports of Western Europe.

Moscow is believed to have ordered the Communist Parties of Italy and France to block that aid by every weapon at hand. Communist leaders in Northern Italy already have pledged that they would call out their dock and railroad workers on strike to prevent the unloading or transport of military aid equipment.

That might be partly effective at the Communist-stronghold ports of Marseilles or Genoa. It is doubted here if it would work at such ports as Cherbourg or Naples, where Communists are weaker.

But even if it did not utterly sabotage or halt arms unloading, it still would serve one Cominform purpose: To make Atlantic Pact aid as costly as possible.

British Ask Reds for Pair

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (INS).—British sources disclosed tonight that London has instructed its diplomatic representatives at Peiping to seek the release of two American flyers who have been held for the past 15 months by the Chinese Communists.

The Americans are Marine M Sgt. Elmer C. Bender of Cincinnati, and Navy Chief Electrician William S. Smith, of Long Beach, Calif.

The pair were forced down in the vicinity of Tsing Tao, China, during a routine training flight in October, 1948.

HELD OUTSIDE CITY

Because the U.S. navy had a mission at Tsing Tao at that time observing tactics used by the Nationalist forces, the Reds held the pair in a Communist military centre outside the city.

Since their capture, British sources have reported that the men are alive and well, but since the United States does not recognize the Red regime in China, it has been unable to get the men out.

It is believed that the British action is in response to a call for assistance from the U.S. State Department.

Bakeries Facing Charges

CALGARY, Jan. 23 (CP). — Summonses were issued today against six Western Canada baking companies and one trade association, charging them with combining to prevent or lessen competition in the production or distribution of bakery products in British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Charged, on instructions from Justice Minister Garson, were McGavin Bakeries, Ltd., Winnipeg; McGavin, Ltd., Edmonton; McGavin, Ltd., Vancouver; Canadian Bakeries, Ltd., Calgary; Weston's Bread and Cake (Canada), Ltd., Winnipeg; Edmonton City Baking, Ltd., and the Bakery Employers' Association of Alberta, Edmonton.

OPENS NEXT MONDAY

The preliminary hearing is scheduled for January 30 in court here before Magistrate G. H. Ross. C. B. Blanchard, K.C., and H. W. Riley, K.C., both of Calgary are counsel for the Crown.

Mr. Blanchard was appointed counsel for the Federal Government a year ago to investigate whether prosecutions should be laid against certain Western Canada bakeries as a result of a report of the combines investigation commissioner.

The report, released in Ottawa, December 13, 1948, charged the concerns conspired to control all bread prices in the three Western provinces and said activities of the companies resulted in progressive elimination of price competition.

REGULATE PRICES

Dating as far back as 1936 in its activities, the alleged combine was said to have made arrangements to regulate all bread prices, preventing any bakeries from selling below agreed levels.

The charge issued today against the six companies and the association said the cities affected by the alleged combine were Victoria, Vancouver and Nanaimo in British Columbia, Regina, Moose Jaw, Swift Current, Saskatoon, Prince Albert, North Battleford and Yorkton in Saskatchewan, and Edmonton, Calgary, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat in Alberta.

Warehouses Bulging In Britain

By The Canadian Press

A surfeit of meat is proving embarrassing to the British Food Ministry at home but strengthens the Government's hand in its food dickering abroad.

The meat ration has been temporarily jacked up but still the stuff piles up. With cold storage warehouses bulging, the Food Ministry has chartered a fleet of refrigerated ships for use as floating larders.

The extent of Government meat stocks is kept secret, but one figure mentioned is 500,000 tons—enough to supply 1,000,000,000 of the present midget weekly rations.

At the same time, stocks of other foodstuffs are piling up. Warehouses are stuffed with £20,000,000 ($62,000,000) worth of frozen cod fillets—at a time when the public taste for plain cod is falling off in favor of more toothsome varieties of seafood now becoming available.

Bacon supplies are arriving so fast from Canada and Denmark that the Ministry has just added another ounce to the weekly ration so that none will spoil in storage. Denmark has complained its butter is stockpiled so long that by the time the public gets it the flavor is practically gone.

No Compensation in B.C. for Frostbite But Province Pays for Heat Victims

OTTAWA, Jan. 23 (CP).—There's a little bit of irony in British Columbia's workmen's compensation laws.

The West Coast province—where blizzards and snowstorms this year have dulled a reputation as a Winter paradise—is the only one which pays compensation for illness suffered on the job as a result of excessive heat. But, unlike four other provinces, it doesn't pay for frostbite.

This fact is contained in a portly document issued today by the Federal Labor Department. Entitled "Workmen's Compensation in Canada—a Comparison of Provincial Laws," the 40-page pamphlet gives Canadians the facts and figures on various provincial acts.

It notes that Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Saskatchewan pay compensation for frostbite suffered at work. British Columbia alone pays for "heat exhaustion."

The various acts differ widely in every respect. New Brunswick, for example, is the only province listed as paying compensation for infection suffered from sugar handling.

Ontario provides flexibility in the act by including any disease peculiar to an industrial process or occupation.

Carbon monoxide poisoning can be compensated in British Columbia, Newfoundland, New Brunswick, Ontario, Quebec and Saskatchewan.

Virtually every province provides compensation for silicosis, a lung disease caused by constant exposure to silica dust, but Quebec is the only one covering silicosis suffered in making pottery.

Most Flying Accidents Caused by Carelessness

OTTAWA, Jan. 23 (CP).—Carelessness by pilots is still the major cause of accidents in sporting flying in Canada, the Royal Canadian Flying Clubs Association was told today.

D. W. Buchanan, secretary-manager of the association, told delegates to the 21st annual meeting that there are still "cases of students starting up aircraft with nobody in the cockpit and no chocks (wheel blocks) under the wheels."

This instance of gross negligence still accounted for about three accidents a year, Mr. Buchanan said.

However, the association's safety record improved in 1949 compared with the previous year. During 1949, the 35 member clubs flew a total of 39,122 hours, compared with 41 clubs flying 35,034 hours the previous year. Average number of accidents per club showed a definite decrease.

Accidents in 1949 totaled 30 including two fatal accidents. In 1948, there were 55 accidents, including four which resulted in six fatalities.

A total of ten clubs received the association's safe-flying certificate for accident-free operation, compared with eight in 1948.

The secretary-manager also reported that revision of flying standards a year ago resulted in fewer qualified pilots in 1949, despite new Government grants. Only 967 pilots qualified compared with 1,433 in 1948.

The grants—$100 to each qualified pilot and $100 to the club which turned him out—were made by the Transport Department to encourage the output of pilots and bring the standards up to those of the International Civil Aviation Organization.

BLACKPOOL, England, Jan. 23 (CP).—An enterprising travel agency is insuring Blackpool holiday customers against rainy weather.

For a premium of 15s ($2.22) the agency is offering a seven-day all-in holiday for £7 19s 6d—with a £6 refund if more than one and a half inches of rain is recorded during the week.

The £6 is for holiday-makers in April, May and June.

For July, if the rainfall is more than one and three-quarter inches, refund will be £4 10s.

August, a two-inch rainfall gives back £4.

Manager of the agency said: "I can visualize many people getting money back."

No wonder. Blackpool is on Britain's wet west coast.

"Me use Nickel?"

The oil and gas he sells would cost more were it not for Nickel. Tough, hard Nickel Steel bits bite through rock to reach the oil. Drilling equipment is made of Nickel Steel to stand terrific stresses and corrosion.

Much oil refinery equipment is made of Nickel alloys to stand up under intense heat, under subzero cold, and to resist corrosion by acids. The modern refinery contains hundreds of tons of Nickel alloys.

In the tankers at sea, in the tank cars which transport oil products, in the tank trucks which bring oil and gasoline to the service station, Nickel alloys are used in many ways.

Forty-three years of research have uncovered hundreds of uses for Nickel in the United States and other countries. Now Nickel exports bring in millions of U.S. dollars yearly. These dollars help pay the 14,000 Nickel employees and also help pay railwaymen, lumbermen, steel and iron workers and other men and women making supplies for the Nickel mines, smelters and refineries.

Long Struggle Brings Parents From Germany

WINNIPEG, Jan. 23 (CP).—Canada's first two German immigrants since the World War sat in a Winnipeg home recently. They used the only two English words they knew—"sunshine" and "perfect"—to describe their new homeland and their relief at being free of the Russian sector of Germany.

Paul Kortmann, 73, and his wife Emma, 71, some few weeks ago walked out of their country home some 15 miles north of Berlin and left behind everything they owned.

Back of the magic-carpet airplane flight that brought the Kortmanns to Canada was more than four years of continued effort by their daughter, Mrs. William Hartmann of Winnipeg.

"Three days after 'V-E' Day, I started working to get my mother and father here," Mrs. Hartmann explained. Three trips to Ottawa, and two to Berlin, countless letters and interviews, more discouragement than hope, marked those years, she said.

Finally, just before Christmas, a telegram was received from Lester B. Pearson, Canada's Minister of External Affairs. It gave the Kortmanns permission to enter the country.

Only Two Western Women On Best Dressed List

TORONTO, Jan. 23 (CP). — It must be more than a coincidence—all 10 of Canada's best-dressed women are married.

Four combine full-time jobs with home-making, two have charitable interests which occupy much of their time and the others concentrate on their families.

The style-setters were chosen by six of Canada's top designers and fashion experts who formed the group of judges in the third annual poll conducted by New Liberty magazine.

The list includes women from St. John's, Nfld., to Vancouver.

Named were: Mrs. Yves Bourassa and Mrs. Murray Vaughan, both of Montreal; Mrs. Henry (Kate) Aitken of Toronto and Montreal; Mrs. Kenneth Davidson and Mrs. Robert Mather, both of Vancouver; Mrs. Chesley Crosbie, St. John's; Mrs. Robert Waterman, Halifax; Mrs. Alan Skaith, Mrs. Leighton Elliott, and Mrs. John McKee of Toronto.

In previous years, judges were asked to choose the best-dressed woman in each profession or occupation. But this year's judges were given a freer hand, asked only to select Canada's 10 best-dressed women, no matter in what field they were interested.

The winners were selected from a list of 46 names drawn up by the magazine's judges. The top 10 were not named in order.

Judges were: Olive Fraser, Ottawa designer; Abbie Lane, Halifax radio commentator and fashion show director; Dominico Vassallo, chief designer of Robert Simpson Company's Toronto custom salon; Dora Matthews, fashion co-ordinator and fashion bureau manager of T. Eaton Company in Toronto; Cecelia Smith, fashion editor of the Vancouver Sun, and Lawrence Sperber, designer and president of Montreal's dress firm, Lawrence Sperber, Ltd.

FORMER POWER MODEL

Three of the best-dressed are professionally fashion-conscious. Mrs. Bourassa is a radio and film actress; Mrs. Davidson is Vancouver Province's fashion editor and Mrs. Mather, former Power model from New York, now models in Vancouver.

Mrs. H. Aitken, more familiarly known as Kate Aitken, is a globe-trotter, newspaper woman, women's director of the Canadian National Exhibition and is married to a Toronto chartered accountant.

The two active in welfare work are Mrs. Crosbie and Mrs. Vaughan. Mrs. Robert Waterman is wife of the co-adjutor Bishop of Nova Scotia. Mrs. Skaith, former columnist, has turned her painting hobby to amusing children in hospitals. Mrs. Elliott is president of Toronto Welfare Council and a member of the Y.W.C.A.'s National Council. Mrs. McKee's hobbies are gardening and raising pet Dalmatians.

London Market Moves Upward

LONDON, Jan. 23 (Reuters).—British Government funds were stimulated by an improvement in national savings during the last week and moved higher today in a fairly active market on the Stock Exchange.

Gains were shown over a wide list. Buying was of medium size, persistent and mainly from the provinces.

Leading industrials were helped by the firmness of funds and showed many small gains. Trading in this and most other sections, however, remained small.

Interest in Japanese bonds produced sharp fluctuations. Selling erased initial gains when it became known that the Japanese objected to a peace treaty that excluded Russia. Germans were fractionally lower where changed.

Oil shares were depressed in early dealings. There was, however, some recovery in the late stages of the day and final levels recorded only small differences. Of the other commodity issues coppers moved lower but rubbers were firm.

Kaffirs sagged in an idle market. Cape and local interest was again small.

The annual general meeting of shareholders will be held at the corporation's head office in London, Ontario, on Wednesday, February 8, at 3 p.m.

TORONTO, Jan. 23 (CP).—Vernon G. Cardy, 60, hotelman and horse-lover, announced today he is considering sale of his hotel chain, which includes Montreal's big Mount Royal Hotel.

After 35 years in the hotel business, he is looking forward to retirement, he said at the annual meeting of the Cardy Corporation Limited, of which he is president.

The Cardy chain: Mount Royal Hotel, Montreal, 1,100 rooms; King Edward Hotel, Toronto, 1,000, Royal Connaught Hotel, Hamilton, 400; Prince Edward Hotel, Windsor, Ont., 300; Alpine Inn and cottages at Ste Marguerite Station, Que., accommodation for 200 guests.

New York Market Holds Steady Course Despite Truman Tax Increase Plan

By The Associated Press

The stock market held a steady course today in the face of President Truman's proposal for a billion dollar tax increase

After the tax message to Congress was made public shortly after noon, the market as a whole lifted from the session's low point and closed with only a slight net loss on the day.

The steadiness also was maintained despite continuation of the coal strikes and threats of strikes in the automobile and communications industries

NOT TOO DISTURBING

One Wall Street source said the proposed corporate tax increases "should not be too greatly disturbing" to business which also would benefit from proposed decreases. Closing so-called tax loopholes, Wall Street brokers felt, was justified to a certain extent.

Overall trading was a cautious affair from the start to finish with volume at 1,240,000 shares.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks backed down only .1 of a point to 73.1 points. That's .3 of a point under the 3¼-year high point reached January 11.

Late selling wiped out early advances and pushed prices into the minus column on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. The market advanced slowly in early dealings, began to give ground at the half-way mark and continued dropping as the session drew to a close. Volume was about 1,030,000 shares.

Trading was selective in industrials. A handful of market leaders slipped from early gains but a slight majority of issues were ahead. Utilities were stronger with Winnipeg Electric featuring and constructions, banks and textiles firmed fractionally. Papers, liquors and steels eased.

Western oils encountered heavy selling at the close after holding against profit-taking pressure for most of the day. Losses ranging up to 15 cents appeared in key issues. Okalta was a brisk trader, going against the trend for a slight gain.

Base metals were balanced in dull activity. Junior gold producers slipped quietly on penny losses.

Stocks favored the minus column near the final hour on the Montreal Stock Exchange and Curb Market today.

Trading was fair and changes were generally limited to fractions with the odd issue reaching more than one point.

Papers led the selected group down with senior oils, banks, steels and beverages following in line, but the industrial section acquired enough plus signs to reach higher ground.

Utilities and base metals showed a mixed tone.

Mines followed the market to register a faint loss, while Western oils were mixed.

Industrial volume was 38,000 shares, and mines had a turnover of 61,700 shares.

Business Notes

Dividend payments by Canadian corporations in January in reflection of the lower dividend by Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company of Canada are down from the record level of January, 1948. The total for the month of $46,747,306, as reported to J. R. Timmins & Co., members, the Toronto Stock Exchange, New York Stock Exchange, Montreal Curb Market, compares with $53,446,876 for January last year and with $48,832,788 for January, 1948.

Payments by miscellaneous industrials are higher at $23,953,320 as against $21,974,460 and $21,864,771 respectively for January, 1949 and 1948.

Total distributions by mining companies for January decreased to $16,692,177 from $22,489,985 a year ago and from $16,063,612 two years ago. Little change occurred in total dividends by utilities.

TORONTO, Jan. 23 (CP).—E. P. Taylor, chairman of the board of Canadian Food Products, Ltd., told today's annual meeting that it would take one or two years to restore a real margin of profit, and it was unlikely that any action would be taken on the common dividend until that time.

He said the satisfactory nature, despite lower earnings, of the financial statement for the year ending October 29, was the maintenance of the company's financial strength.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23 (AP).—Although hog receipts were well above those of a week ago, today's week-end accumulation found good clearance at steady to 25 cents lower prices. Cattle, in heaviest supply in more than half a year, were weak to $1 lower, while sheep failed to sell early in face of higher asking prices

What Makes Your Hair Keep Growing?
Many worry about "thinning" hair, yet don't know the facts
The average healthy head of hair grows 1,200 to 2,400 new hairs a month!
"But if your scalp is too dry, too oily, or clogged with dandruff, you can look for trouble," hair experts say.
Unless you wash your hair at least once a week, an unclean, unhealthy scalp condition often develops. For your hair is like a spider web that traps dust, soot, dirt and smoke from the air. These combine with perspiration, oil, dried skin or dandruff—to form a scaly, waxy accumulation that fits closely and almost invisibly over your scalp—and helps choke off nourishment from your hair.
To keep your hair healthy, abundant and good-looking—you should dissolve away all dirt and dandruff with a weekly shampoo. Use Fitch Dandruff Remover Shampoo, the only shampoo guaranteed to remove dandruff.
Fitch is stimulating to the scalp and leaves it tingling with health—because this scientifically-prepared shampoo penetrates right down into the thousands of tiny hair roots—dissolves and washes away clinging dirt and dandruff and leaves your scalp antiseptically clean. British Job Set For Virginia Mayo

HEARD IN HOLLYWOOD

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (INS).—The big row, over whether British equity would permit Warner Brothers to put Virginia Mayo in "Captain Horatio Hornblower" opposite Gregory Peck, is settled. Virginia gets her labor permit immediately and sails January 28 on the Queen Mary for the Warner picture.

This, believe me, took a bit of doing. The British Actors' Association put up no protest against Peck, but with one American star in the picture being made in England, they were holding out for a British woman co-star.

SWAMPED WITH JOBS

Now that the plight of Lamberto Maggiorani, sensational star of "Bicycle Thief," has achieved international publicity—he is being swamped with movie jobs. You must have read of how poor Maggiorani, a laborer elevated to stardom by De Sica in his wonderful picture, could not get another picture job and his whole family had to go on relief!

But here come the opportunist King brothers to the rescue, offering Lamberto (well named) the lead in "The Giant Killer," their picture on Lt. Joseph Petrosino. Petrosino is the New York policeman who wiped out the Black Hand Society in New York and was later assassinated in Sicily presumably by a Black Hander.

But whether the Kings can wait or not, Geza Radvanyi, the Hungarian director, gets Maggiorani first. He has already signed to do a picture based more or less on his own life story for Radvanyi.

BERGMAN REPLACED

For the first time in four years the national rural movie goers have ousted Ingrid Bergman as favorite woman star in the rural poll conducted by Country Gentleman Magazine.

June Allyson took over top spot with Ingrid slipping to sixth place with Esther Williams, Loretta Young, Shirley Temple, Jane Wyman in between.

Bing Crosby stays in No. 1 place among the men with the small town fans, with Roy Rogers, Montgomery Clift and Alan Ladd following.

MISTAKEN LUNCH

David Niven could hardly wait to get home the other night to find out what alcoholic horror had befallen his eight-year-old son.

It seems that David, Sr., had had a bad cold and Mrs. Niven had been putting a thermos of milk and rum in his lunch box. But, in the haste of making off in the morning, David, Jr., got the old man's lunch box by mistake!

Everybody thinks the story is funny except Mrs. Niven, who immediately called the school and had to do a lot of explaining about why David, Jr., should not drink his milk!

HOLLYWOOD SNAPSHOTS

Sherman Billingsley took me on a personally conducted tour of the fabulous new room in the Stork Club he just built. A big party was in full swing, and Elliot Roosevelt was there with Gigi Durston, who is not half as pretty as Faye Emerson.

Met Charles Boyer at the Pavilion. He says he is going home early next month and has decided against doing a play now.

Lunched at 21 and talked with Claire Trevor and Milton Bren. Claire is on a P.A. tour with their picture, "Borderline."

Said au revoir to Phil Regan, who was at 21 and who is heading back to the Coast for his M-G-M picture. But it won't be made until next month. His appointment looks good.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

NEW INDIAN STAMPS

NEW DELHI (CP). — The Indian Posts and Telegraph Department will issue special covers and stamp folders January 26, together with a new postage stamp to celebrate the inauguration of the Republic of India. The first day cover shows two Indian maidens blowing trumpets to herald the dawn of the republic.

Uncle Wiggily Story - - - By Howard Garis

BUNTY'S DOLL

Buster was very proud of his Christmas fire engine. That is he had been proud of it before it became broken and wouldn't squirt water any more. It was a very fine toy fire engine. When Buster put some water in a tank on the engine, and wound up a spring, a little pump started squirting water through a real, rubber hose with a nozzle.

Of course, it was only a little hose, for Buster's engine wasn't very large. But it shot a stream of water halfway across the room. It squirted a larger stream than a water pistol.

But soon after Buster, on the day following Christmas, had squirted water on Bunty's doll, that little rabbit girl had said:

"Buster Longears, I wish your fire engine would break!"

Of course, Bunty didn't exactly mean that, any more than Buster had intended squirting water on Bunty's doll. That was an accident. But, be that as it may, soon after Bunty had said she wished Buster's engine would break, the engine broke. It wouldn't squirt water any more.

So that's why Buster was now looking for Uncle Wiggily. He wanted him to mend the broken Christmas toy engine. Nurse Jane didn't tell Buster that his father was hiding in the igloo of the jolly polar bear. Uncle Wiggily wanted peace and quiet. He wanted to get away from his many little rabbit children who, he knew, would tease him to mend their broken Christmas toys. So Uncle Wiggily hid in the igloo.

As Buster hopped out of the bungalow, with his broken engine, he saw Mr. Whitewash. The polar bear had been to the grocery of Uncle Butter the goat to buy some bread to eat with his frozen fish. Every year when Mr. Whitewash came from the North Pole to visit Uncle Wiggily, the jolly white bear brought frozen fish with him.

"Good morning, Mr. Whitewash," greeted Buster politely. "Have you seen my father this morning?"

"No, Bustah boy, A haan't seen Uncle Wiggily, suh," answered the North Pole bear who spoke with a South Pole accent. "Ah haan't seen him a-tall this year mawnin'." This was true, for Uncle Wiggily had hopped into the igloo when Mr Whitewash was at Uncle Butter's grocery store. "Why do yo' all want yo' father, Bustah?"

"I want him to mend my broken fire engine," answered Buster. "It won't squirt water any more. Are you soon going back to the Santa Claus toy shop at the North Pole, Mr Whitewash?"

"No, Bustah boy. Ah don't reckon Ah'll be goin' back theah until about a week." Mr. Whitewash worked in the Santa Claus toy shop and was now on his vacation. "What did yo' all want, Bustah, in case Ah went back?"

"I'd like you to take this broken fire engine and bring me another, if you please, Mr. Whitewash."

"Let me take a look at yo'all fiah engine, Bustah. Maybe Ah can fix it fo' yo'all."

Uncle Wiggily, inside the igloo looking out, laughed to himself and whispered: "You take a turn at it, Whitie. I've been mending broken Christmas toys many years. Now it's your turn."

Mr. Whitewash, not knowing that Uncle Wiggily was in the igloo, looked at Buster's toy fire engine. He wound up the spring but the pump wouldn't pump. The water wouldn't squirt. Then, all of a sudden, Bunty came hopping out of the bungalow.

"My doll! My doll!" exclaimed the orphan rabbit. "My lovely Christmas doll is broken. Where's Uncle Wiggily? I want him to fix my Christmas doll!"

I'll tell you more tomorrow if the roller skate will lend one of its wheels to the baby's high chair so it can ride to the movies with the egg-beater.

The God-Seeker By Sinclair Lewis

There began then for Aaron a life of such quiet reasonableness as he had never known. It lasted for three days, which is a good deal in one human existence, and then God laughed.

Aaron was out in the marsh along the Isanti River, searching for a stubborn and cynical stray cow. Entering the marsh was a creek swift enough to keep an open pool in the coldest weather, and he went cautiously; at 20 below zero, it was not safe to go home wet. He stopped short. Floating in the pool was something like a black scarf. Then he saw Davy Queenslace looking up at him steadily, open-eyed. Only, he was dead.

He ran, stumbling, desperate, carrying what was left of David's passion for God horribly against his chest, against his neck. It occurred to him that he must not shock Selene with sight of this mockery and he bore the body into the log stable.

Aaron was trembling with shocks of cold electricity, shaking, helpless, till the blessed warmth of life came back and he was gasping to Jake, "Can you help me make a coffin, quick, before They can see it?"

By They he knew he meant Selene.

Over the coffin, that early twilight, the women wailed, their hair loose, their hands clutching the bare bright pine wood—Selene, Huldah, Anna, Bessie, Luna Speezer—but Aaron saw that Selene was the only one of them who seemed broken and helpless, identifying herself with this menacing death.

They buried Davy in a pit chopped out of stone-hard earth, next to Mercie's little headboard, which was already leaning a little, with the painted letters already a little blurred by the gales. They shivered about the grave in the defenceless prairie, in a slow, ceaseless falling of snow.

Next day Black Wolf came to Harge, snarling, "I just heard!" He was clearly quite insane. "You killed my friend with your magic! I'll be revenged on the whole bunch of you!"

They pretended to laugh at the Wolf, but now and then, amid a dull conversation about Hell, one of the men would grunt, "I suppose he could get some of the Teton and Yankton to join his Wahpeton. Tough raiders, too."

In February the local band of Indians returned from the hunt and set up their tents. Furs were joyfully carried into Lanark's warehouse and the Indians had new shotguns and rifles. Their children came to the Mission school, and Selene, proud to be a schoolmistress and no longer a schoolgirl, helped Huldah and the Speezers drill them in English, spelling and arithmetic and sewing and Bible stories.

This Winter of 1848-49 had been remarkably cold, but Spring blew up early and grateful.

March struggled in with early crows and red-winged blackbirds and hints of green grass. Even a few of the cautious gophers peeped out of their burrows. That crabbed weather-croaker, Jake, insisted that Winter would return, but the rest of them frolicked in the gentle warmth, and Aaron walked unabashed, hand-in-hand with Selene.

Culbertson on Bridge

(Copyright, 1949, By Ely Culbertson)

To the player of long experience, it is rarely difficult to choose the right opening bid or the right response—these calls have long been standardized. The opening hand's rebid, however, and, more particularly, the responder's rebid, often introduce real problems. For example, two outstanding experts got into trouble with this deal:

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ A 6 2
♥ A K 10 5 4 2
♦ 10 8
♣ 5 3

WEST
♠ K 5
♥ 8 7 6
♦ A Q 4 3 2
♣ 8 6 2

EAST
♠ 10 8 7 5
♥ Q 9 3
♦ K J 7 6
♣ Q 9

SOUTH
♠ Q J 4 3
♥ J
♦ 9 5
♣ A K J 10 7 4

This was the auction in a rubber bridge game played for "prestige" as well as high stakes:

North	East	South	West
1♥	Pass	2♣	Pass
2♥	Pass	2♠	Pass
3♠	Pass	4♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

The defenders collected two diamonds, and then East persisted with a third diamond, even though he was fairly sure that declarer, as well as dummy, was now out of the suit. Declarer ruffed the third diamond in dummy, to preserve his own trump length, but he soon found that the trump suit was quite unmanageable, and he ended up with a two-trick penalty.

This was not a very serious loss, but in view of the couple of hundred points that could have been made at a part-score club contract, neither was it a very satisfactory outcome for North-South!

It is obvious that the two-spade rebid chosen by South started his side on the downward path. Granted, North did not have to raise this bid, holding only three trumps, but the point was that North had no better option. He was willing to play at a spade contract if South had four good trumps, and there was no way of his knowing that South's spade suit was so weak.

This brings us to our point. It is true that South had something to think about on the second round, but there can be little doubt that, everything considered, he should have been satisfied to make the less encouraging call of three clubs. If North elected to pass, it was scarcely likely that any laydown game would be missed, and South at least would collect his honors.

Victims of Bad Weather, Drivers Have Hectic Day

Caught unawares by yesterday's sudden snowfall, Greater Victoria motorists slid their way into dozens of accidents of varying degrees of seriousness by the end of the business day.

On East Saanich Road near Hovey Road, Colonel Cy Peck, V.C., All Bay Road, Sidney, narrowly escaped serious injury when his small car hit an icy section of road and overturned twice. Colonel Peck was shaken up but not injured. His car was damaged to the extent of about $200, according to Sgt. Eric Elwell and Constable D. E. Anderson, who attended the crash scene.

ONE INJURED

Another East Saanich Road crash resulted in injury to one man and about $300 damage to a Provincial Department of Health car driven by Olive May Johnson, Third Avenue, Sidney. M. Thomas, Beacon Avenue, Sidney, received a slight cut on his head. The car was in collision with a truck driven by A. J. McBeth, 1314 Pembroke Street, near the intersection of Tanner Road. Damage to the truck was small, Constable Robert Adrian reported.

A freak accident on Gorge Road near Adelaide Avenue resulted in about $100 damage to a car driven by Alan Tregallas, 320 Gorge Road West. Saanich Police said Tregallas' car was being towed by a car driven by Maurice Newberry, 408 Parry Street, when the tow rope broke, causing Tregallas' car to skid into an oncoming truck driven by Sidney Samuelson, Cobble Hill. Damage to the truck was about $75.

CARS COLLIDE

Oak Bay police said cars driven by Mrs. G. M. Bell, 742 St. Patrick Street, and Mrs. V. A. Peden, 978 Hampshire Road, collided at the intersection of Oliver and McNeil Streets. Damage to both cars was considerable.

City police were on the go all day with a long string of minor scrapes. No persons were injured.

A car driven by Colin R. Weatherbe, Vancouver, skidded at the intersection of Fort and Duchess Streets and ended up by crashing through a fence and into a house at 1315 Duchess Street. The car traveled over the sidewalk and took out about 20 feet of fence.

IN COLLISION

At the intersection of Pandora Avenue and Quadra Streets, cars driven by Stanley Scott-Poulson, Welch Road, Royal Oak; Mrs. E. M. Carrier, Tod Inlet, and Ernest E. Goodwyn, 456 Moss Street, were involved in a bumper-to-bumper collision. Damage was not extensive. All were traveling south on Quadra Street and attempting to stop when the collision occurred.

Considerable damage was caused to a car driven by Sidney Sangster, 1824 Quadra Street, when involved in a collision with a truck driveo by Robert H. Cunningham, 400 Kingston Street, at the corner of Blanshard and View Streets.

Cars driven by Joseph Bradley, 921 Green Street, and Ray Baker, address unreported, collided at the intersection of Cook and Johnson Streets, causing slight damage. At the intersection of Douglas Street and Pandora Avenue, cars operated by A. W. Pitt, 2888 Heath Drive, and Gordon Warren, Gordon Head Camp, collided. Damage was small.

Numerous other accidents also were reported to police, who found it impossible to attend minor crashes. Drivers in many cases made their own reports.

WOMAN INJURED

Mrs. P. L. Welch, 66, 841 Island Highway, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital by city police yesterday afternoon when she hurt her leg in a fall at the intersection of Herald and Douglas Streets.

Progressive Conservative Leaders Meet in City

—Colonist Photo

Three prominent members of Progressive Conservative Party met in Victoria yesterday. J. M. Macdonnell, M.P. for Toronto-Greenwood and president of National Progressive Conservative Association, is shown at centre chatting with Hon. Herbert Anscomb, co-leader of British Columbia's Coalition Government and provincial head of the party. At right is Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., M.P. for Nanaimo.

TO PLAN FACE-LIFTING

A special committee, whose job it will be to consider proposals for "sprucing up" the City Hall, was named yesterday by Mayor George.

Named to the committee were Alderman Harold Diggon, Alderman Dr. J. D. Hunter, Alderman Waldo Skillings and Alderman Percy Scurrah.

Petty Thieves Busy in Victoria; Homes, Parking Meters Prowled

Petty crime flourished over the week-end as several premises were entered and about 24 parking meters smashed open.

City police arrested and charged one teen-ager for breaking into six parking meters, but no suspects are being held for the robberies.

Seven meters were entered on Cormorant Street, six on Langley Street, seven on View Street and four on Fort Street.

CLEANERS ROBBED

About $12 in cash was taken from the till of Central Cleaners, 790 Fort Street, when the premises were entered through a transom. A $15 set of earrings also was stolen.

Pitzer and Nea service station, 2650 Douglas Street, also was entered and some small change taken.

The vessel, Songhee, tied up at the Marine Service Wharf, Inner Harbor, was ransacked and about $300 damage caused. This happened also on January 13. Some juveniles are being questioned.

A car owned by E. S. Rose, 33 Howe Street, and parked outside 2744 Forbes Street, was prowled early Sunday morning. Entrance was gained by forcing a window. A large hole was also cut in the roof. A flashlight and a gift parcel were taken.

HOME ENTERED

The home of Lawrence McFadyen, 2710 Blackwood Avenue, was entered Saturday night and $11.50 stolen. An axe was used to jimmy a window. A showcase outside Plimley's Ltd. garage, Yates Street, was tampered with.

Clothing valuing $115 was stolen from Individual Dry Cleaners, 777 Douglas Street, when the premises were entered overnight Sunday.

No Public Hearings

P.U.C. Ready to Rule On Gas Price Boosts

Public Utilities Commission is ready to make its recommendation on gasoline price increases for approval by the Provincial Cabinet, it was learned yesterday.

Applications were made to the commission several months ago by British Columbia's major oil companies for increases ranging from one to three cents a gallon. The companies claimed low prices for fuel oil were causing them losses in operation.

Also before the board is a request from retailers for an increase in their margin.

EXAMINE BOOKS

For the past several weeks, according to Commission Chairman W. A. Carrothers, accountants have been examining books of the companies involved.

Yesterday, Dr. Carrothers said it had been decided public hearings were not necessary. He noted that oil companies were in competition and the question of disclosing confidential figures might arise at such a hearing.

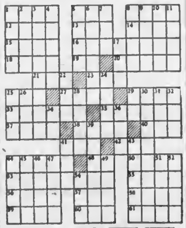

PROTEST INCREASES

The B.C. Automobile Association and coal producers have already protested an increase.

Final decision will rest with the Cabinet, which has also had a request from unions in the oil industry to abolish price control entirely.

Leonard Close Up In Long Beach Open

Vancouver Man Cards 69 to Place Second As Fred Haas, Jr., Blazes Way to Top Money

LONG BEACH, Calif., Jan. 23 (INS).—New Orleans' favorite golfing son, Fred Haas, Jr., walked off with the $10,000 Long Beach open golf tournament today by firing a final round six-under-par 65.

The card gave him a blazing four-day total of 268 which was 16 under par and new tournament record over short Lakewood Country Club course.

Second place finisher was former Canadian P.G.A. champion Stan Leonard of Vancouver who completed his 72-hole chore with 273. He shot a two-under-par 69 on his final round.

Haas' day-by-day totals were 70-66-67-65. Leonard's divisional scores were 71-66-67-69.

Tied for third at 274 were Al Brosch, Garden City, N.Y., and Dr. Cary Middlecoff.

SNEAD OFF STRIDE

Pre-tournament favorite Sammy Snead was never really able to hit his stride. He finished with a 277, in a tie for 14th place with five other golfers. He scored a 68 on his final round.

Bunched at 275 were Marty Furgol, Jim Ferrier and Smiley Quick.

The Long Beach victory was worth $2,000 to Haas. It was his first tournament win since he annexed the Miami open last month. He finished far out of the money in the recent Los Angeles open and in last year's Long Beach inaugural tournament he tied for tenth with a 282.

Haas entered the final round today one stroke ahead of Leonard, Quick, Ferrier and Middlecoff.

LEONARD MAN TO BEAT

Playing with Quick and Leonard in the day's final threesome, Haas heard that Middlecoff and Ferrier were out of contention. By the ninth hole he knew that the man he had to beat was Leonard.

For the first eight holes it was nip-and-tuck.

Leonard was deadly with his short irons. He birdied the first hole, and just missed a bird on the second when a 50-foot putt stopped on the rim of the cup. He then chipped another stroke off par on the fifth.

Haas drew his first birdie on the long third and then added another on the sixth to remain a stroke ahead of Leonard.

IN TROUBLE FROM FIRST

Quick, meanwhile, was in trouble from his first hole, which he bogeyed, and he turned the first nine one over par.

On the eighth Haas grabbed a two-stroke lead when Leonard took a bogey five and that's the way it stood at the turn.

On the homeward side, the 34-year-old Haas stayed right in the groove.

He birdied in the tenth, parred the next three holes, then birdied holes 14 and 15, took a par on 16 and 17 and finished the eighteenth with his fourth birdie of the incoming nine.

COULDN'T MATCH PACE

Leonard, meanwhile, was unable to keep up with Haas' sharp play. The best he could do was two birdies and a bogey for a one-under-par 35 on the homeward side.

At the conclusion of today's final round the touring professionals packed their bags and headed for Phoenix, Arizona, for the opening there on Thursday of the $10,000 Ben Hogan open.

Full Season For Fun; Then Finals

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23 (AP).—Southern division members of the Pacific Coast Hockey League decided today how they will manage the annual post-season play-offs now that Oakland has dropped out of the circuit.

If the fourth-place club winds up within six points of the third-place club, all four clubs will participate in the play-offs.

League President Al Leader said that the present player's pool was based upon four teams in each division participating in play-offs. But Oakland's withdrawal leaves the southern division with just four teams.

Leader said that if the last place team ends its schedule seven or more points behind the third place club, only three teams will enter the play-offs for the right to meet the northern division champion.

Tiremen Continue Hold Over Coaches

B.O.P. Reaches Out of Cellar to Down Hotels—Navy Rallies Twice to Edge Civil Service

Civil Service	4	8	6	57	64	16
B.O.P.	6	16	6	56	76	6

Last night's results: Douglas Tire 3, Coach Lines 1; Navy 4, Civil Service 3; B.O.P. 3, Hotelmen 2.

Next games: Tuesday, January 31, 7 p.m.

Douglas Tire's Commercial Hockey League squad continued to hold its mastery over the loop-leading Coach Lines and moved to within a single point of the Transitmen with a bruising 3-1 win at Memorial Arena last night.

In three meetings this season, the Tiremen have downed the Bus Drivers twice and played to a tie in the other encounter.

UPSET HOTELMEN

Earlier games in the weekly three-game card saw the youthful B.O.P. outfit reach up out of the cellar to upset Hotelmen 3-2 and Navy tallied twice in the dying minutes to eke out a 4-3 triumph over Civil Service.

Play was definitely on the rugged side in the feature encounter as feelings ran high between the two clubs. The Tiremen took a first period lead on Walt Jensen's goal after Ernie Pearce had made the opening. Ed Harris notched the equaliser midway in the second canto on a long screen shot.

EX-PROS SCORE

Two former pros teamed up for the winning marker. Frank Warshawski carried the rubber into scoring position, laid a perfect pass onto the stick of Ken Gunter and the ex-Cougar whistled a 30-foot into the top corner of the rigging.

Coach Lines did everything but score in the last five minutes but were thwarted by a persistent defense and the fine netminding of Al Ellis.

B.O.P. made speed and hustle pay off for its second win of the season in the opening tussle. Gordy Parks rapped in the last two markers for the winners with Larry Larochelle gaining credit for the initial tally. Luke Lucas and Bill Jensen were the Innkeepers' marksmen with Jensen scoring in the final second.

Navy was hard-pressed to outscore the tenacious checking Civil Service squad and were behind 3-2 with five minutes remaining. The Sailors caught the opposition with three men down the ice on each of their two final counters. Ivan Wood flashed the red light for the equaliser and Doug Johnson notched the winner on a play with Wood and Steve Harris.

Collegians overcame an 11-8 deficit with seven straight points in the second quarter last night and outscored the Aces, 12-6, in the third canto to carry a 28-17 margin into the final period. They ran the count to 34-18 before Al Boyd paced a late rally by the losers that netted nine points. Johnny Clarkson set the pace for winners with 17 points.

Cougars Face Tough Test Tonight Against Royals

Fresno	6	27	10	113	161	22

Sunday's score: Fresno 3, San Diego 2.

Next game, tonight: San Francisco at Fresno.

Still retaining a faint play-off hope, Victoria's embattled Cougars tonight hope to keep up their fine showing against New Westminster Royals, the class of the Northern Division of the P.C.H.L.

Although the Cougars are firmly embedded in the division cellar and the Royals are far out in front, there has been little indication of the disparity in the standings in games between these two clubs, which have been crowd-pleasers.

Since dropping the first two games of the season, 10-2 and 7-3, the Victorians have won two, tied two and lost three against Babe Pratt's smooth-passing crew to boast the best record in the league against the loop leaders.

ALL AT ROYAL CITY

The three setbacks all came on New Westminster ice and the Cougars could have won all three with a few more breaks. The scores were 7-5, 3-3 and 5-7. The Royals haven't won on Victoria ice since October 14, losing 3-3 and 4-1 and salvaging 3-2 and 3-2 draws in four games.

But it will be a stern task tonight for the scrappy Cats, who seem to be playing their best hockey against the toughest conditions. The club will probably only be able to strip 13 men despite the return to action of Murray Richardson, who will see his first action in almost two months after breaking a wrist in his second game after joining the club.

COACH STILL OUT

Coach Ed Wares will be out for at least two weeks and Roy McKay seems out for the season with the torn ligament he incurred at Tacoma Saturday night. To top it off, it is doubtful if Ed Dorohoy will be able to play, although the eager centre may give it another try.

Dorohoy saw no action in Portland Sunday. The cast on his broken wrist was bothering him considerably and a Portland doctor advised no more hockey until the wrist healed.

As matters stood last night, Russ Kopak will centre Larry Thibeault and Georges Beugie on one line with Jack McIntyre flanked by Joe Evans and Ed Mazur on a second attacking unit and Richardson spelling both centres. Bernie Strongman and Tom Rockey and Flori Goegen and Ed Marineau will line up in front of Goalie Jerry Fodey.

DISASTROUS TRIP

Sunday climaxed a disastrous nine days for the Cougars when they lost their second 3-3 decision to Portland in three days. It was the fifth game for Victoria in that span and the Cougars managed only one point although they could have boasted a five-game win streak. In addition to the Portland setbacks, Victoria lost 4-3 and 7-5 heartbreakers to Tacoma and the Royals, respectively, while tying with Seattle.

Manager Fred Hutchinson is doing all he can to find some reinforcements but it is almost an impossible task at this stage of the season and play-off hopes look awfully dim.

Although a four-game win streak could move the Cougars right back into contention, each game gets increasingly tough with Tacoma, Seattle, Vancouver and Portland bunched in the scramble for the three play-off berths behind New Westminster and every team going all out each time out. The odds are against the short-handed Cougars, who are carrying a big extra load in the tough schedule.

Two Series Set For Play-Offs In W.C.H.L.

CALGARY, Jan. 23 (CP).—Western Canada Hockey League teams will stage a three-squad play-off, it was decided at a closed meeting of the league executive here yesterday.

D. P. McDonald, league president, also announced that Edmonton and Calgary will stage the postponed game of January 14 in Edmonton, February 13.

The League play-offs will be run in a pair of best-of-seven-game series with the bottom club in the final standing being eliminated. Second and third clubs will meet to determine which squad is to meet the league leader in another best-of-seven series for the league title.

League champions will continue in Allan Cup competitions as league representatives.

B.C. Play-Offs For Allan Cup Start March 21

SPOKANE, Jan. 23 (AP). — The championship play-off in the Western International Hockey League will start March 2, loop directors said in a four-hour clinic here today.

The series, to be played on a best-of-five basis, will be run off on March 3, 4, 6, 8—and 8 if necessary—between the league-schedule winner and the second-place team, W. L. Clark, W.I.H.L. president, said.

A similar series, on the same days, will be held between the third and fourth-place teams to decide who plays the top Canadian club in the Kootenay district finals for the Allan Cup playdowns.

Also announced was the date by which the British Columbia champion must be decided. Championship play-offs will start March 21, Clark said. The Allan Cup playdowns, to be held in the West this year, will start April 1, and will be on a best-of-five schedule.

The world's first amateur boxing association was formed in Britain in 1880.

DeWolf President Of Golf Group

Rear Admiral H. G. DeWolf was elected president of the Royal Canadian Navy Golf Association at its annual meeting yesterday.

Other officers named were: Vice-president, Capt. (E) R. A. Wright; chairman, Inst. Cmdr. G. L. Amyot; vice-chairman, Cmdr. (E) M. E. Doyle; secretary-treasurer, Mr. Bob Dewhirst; team captain, Mr. C. M. Holland.

Series to Start February 1

Date of Finals Advanced By City Cage Official

Victoria and District Basketball Association officials called a hurried meeting of the executive last night to plan their city play-offs. It was decided that in order to name their champions by the dates set by the Vancouver Island Basketball Association, city play-offs would have to start immediately and series in all divisions except senior "A" men would have to be curtailed from previous arrangements.

Under the new plan all senior "B" men and intermediate "A" men's series will be two-game total-point affairs. Intermediate "B" men's and junior boys' semi-finals will be sudden-death games with the finals two-game total-point series. Senior "A" men's final will be a best-of-five series starting Wednesday, February 1.

All games previous scheduled for this week are canceled and play-offs will open tomorrow night. Revised schedule for the week follows:

Tomorrow—7 p.m., Junior boys' semi-final, St. Louis College vs. Chinese Students (sudden-death game, winner to meet Tillicums in total-point series). 8 p.m.: Intermediate "A" men's semi-final, Elks vs. Victoria High Totems (first game of total-point series). 9 p.m.: Senior "A" men's quarter final, Navy vs. Brentwood Aces (second game of total-point series. Navy leads by four points).

Friday—8 p.m., Senior "B" women's final, Comets vs. Eaglettes (first game of total-point series).

Saturday—7 p.m., Midget boys' final, B.Y.'s Lions vs. K.Y.'s Tigers (first game of total-point series). 8 p.m.: Intermediate "B" boys' semi-final, Barons vs. Chinese Students (sudden death game, winner to meet Elks in total-point series). 9 p.m.: Senior "B" men's semi-final, Victoria Confections vs. Fletchers Men's Wear (second game of total point series, Fletchers lead by 11 points).

Hockey Fans In Montreal Pay Tribute

MONTREAL, Jan. 23 (CP).—More than 8,000 Montreal hockey fans turned out at the Forum tonight to honor the memory of Tag Millar—the little guy who last year hollered Montreal Junior Royals through to the Memorial Cup and died shortly after. He was 35.

Tonight's show was a benefit for Tag's widow and two children. It realized $7,688.33, which will be turned over to Mrs. Millar.

One of the main events on the program was a puck-carrying speed race among N.H.L. players. Bill Mosienko, fleet Chicago Black Hawk, defeated three other N.H.L. men to win an inscribed wrist watch. Max McNabb of Detroit was second, Tony Leswick of New York Rangers, was third, and Floyd Curry of Montreal Canadiens, fourth.

The final event on the program was an exhibition between Montreal Canadiens of the N.H.L. and an all-star amateur team made up of Quebec senior and junior players. The 20-minute tilt ended in a 1-1 tie.

Kinsmen Join In Sponsoring Boxing Show

Vic Lea, publicity chairman of the Kinsmen Club, announced yesterday that the club would act with the Vancouver Island Boxing Association as co-sponsor of the Vancouver Island Silver Gloves (Schoolboy) championships.

The meet will be held at Bay Street Armoury on Saturday, February 18. The age limit is 16 years and under, with regular weight classes and special classes in the lighter weights.

Winners of the Vancouver Island tournament will advance to the British Columbia Silver Gloves, which are also expected to be operated under the joint sponsorship of the Kinsmen Club and the Vancouver Island Boxing Association. The British Columbia meet is scheduled for March 4 at Bay Street Armoury.

The North Ward Boxing Club will stage a ten-bout card at the Sirocco on Saturday which will serve as a tune-up for club members competing in the Vancouver Island tournament. Those seeing action on the card include: Richard Saunders, John McLeod, Harry Millard, Pat Steele, Frank and Robin Copley and Steve Carter. First bout will start at 8 p.m.

Flyers Swamp Regina Caps

EDMONTON, Jan. 23 (CP).—In a game that saw Edmonton's gold dust twins, Colin Kilburn and Doug Anderson, score four goals each, Flyers tonight skated Regina Caps into the ice for a 16-3 victory. The win increased Flyers' first-place lead over Calgary Stampeders to three points.

Following the game, Cliff Ehrle, Caps' manager, said six of his players were suffering from dysentery. He identified Goalie Barefoot as one of the players but did not name the others.

Two Divisions Aligned To Seek World Grid Title

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 23 (INS).—The National-American Football League, after five days of bickering and wrangling, finally arrived at a "balance of power" tonight in aligning two divisions to fight for the world's professional gridiron championship.

Even with their prolonged discussions, the 13 club owners couldn't make a decision until Commissioner Bert Bell issued an ultimatum that he would if they didn't. This produced the following result:

CHOOSE TEAMS

Division "A"—New York Giants, Chicago Cardinals, Philadelphia Eagles, Pittsburgh Steelers, Washington Redskins, Cleveland Browns.

Division "B"—New York Bulldogs, Los Angeles Rams, San Francisco 49'ers, Detroit Lions, Green Bay Packers, Chicago Bears.

The divisions later will be tagged "American" and "National" when Bell makes up a playing schedule.

The 13th team in the league—the Baltimore Colts—will be the "swing team," playing every other team in the league once, on a 12-game schedule.

PLAY 12 GAMES

Other clubs, it was indicated, would play their 12 games this way: Home-and-home with four other clubs in the same division (total eight), home-and-home with a "traditional rival" in the other division (like Bears vs. Cards), one game with the "swing team," and a 12th game with another club in the other division.

George P. Marshall, owner of the Redskins, cast the only dissenting vote to the new setup. Reportedly he favored being in the same league with the Colts in order to play at least two games with them and exploit their natural geographical rivalry.

STRONGER SETUP

Although the pro magnates attempted to assign an even balance of power, it was immediately evident that the division with the two champs of the old pre-merger leagues—the Eagles and the Browns—will be the stronger, at least for 1950.

The old question of who was stronger—the National League or the All-America Conference—may be answered. The Eagles and Browns meet twice next Fall.

At a morning session, the N.A.F.L. "Wranglers" adopted the league rules for the 1950 season. Chief among those approved were:

1. Continuance of the "tackle-eligible" play, a razzle-dazzle manoeuvre that makes the tackle an eligible pass receiver when the end drops back a yard;

UNABLE FORFEIT GAMES

2. Banning of forfeiture rights for officials, making officials unable to forfeit games when teams refuse to continue play because of arguments or fan interference (explained Bell: "It's possible gamblers could start an affair like that for the purpose of getting a game forfeited");

3. Permanent adoption of the free substitution rule, the pro equivalent of the two-platoon system;

4. Giving possession of the ball to the offensive team, and not the team that last touched the ball, when the pigskin goes out of bounds between the goal lines on a backward pass or fumble from scrimmage.

Sunday's results: Canadiens 5, Boston 4; Toronto 1, Detroit 0; Chicago 4, Rangers 3.

Next games: Tomorrow, Rangers at Toronto; Boston at Detroit.

Montreal's resurgent Canadiens withstood a furious third-period rally by the Boston Bruins to score a 5-4 victory before a Sunday crowd of 12,202 spectators and move within nine points of the front-running Detroit Red Wings.

Toronto helped the Montreal cause and consolidated its own third-place position by posting a 1-0 win over the Wings. Chicago Black Hawks chalked up the night's third one-goal decision and gave the skidding Rangers another push on the downhill path by downing the New Yorkers, 4-3.

BANGED IN FIVE

In Boston, the Canadiens banged in four first-period counters and added another in the middle session to carry an apparently safe 5-0 lead into the final heat.

Captain Milt Schmidt started the rash of Bruin scoring and ruined Goalie Bill Durnan's hopes of adding his eighth shutout to his 35th birthday celebration. Before the Montrealers could slow down the attack, the home club had tallied four times in ten minutes.

SIXTH SHUTOUT

Paced by the sensational netminding of Turk Broda, the Maple Leafs won their second game of the weekend and their sixth in eight starts before the season's largest turnout at Detroit Olympia, 14,418 fans.

Broda kicked out 24 shots on the way to his sixth shutout, while Sid Smith notched the lone marker of the thrilling contest which was highlighted by a 12-penalty first period.

In contrast, was the game in Chicago that saw only one penalty—an interference misdemeanor by Chicago's Doug Bentley—called in the entire contest.

The Windy City crew broke a tie with two goals in the last period while the New Yorkers' Buddy O'Connor scored the visitors' only reply with Bentley in the penalty box.

By GRANTLAND RICE

"In spite of all that's been written and spoken about Hogan's comeback," Cary Middlecoff, Open champion and a close friend told me, "the true story is unbelievable. Ben, as far as one knew, came to the Riviera course to be a spectator at the Los Angeles Open two weeks ago. I knew he had been working overtime to get in shape to play tournament golf but his comeback goal I judged to be some time this Summer. Maybe by the Masters in April But too many things had happened to Hogan for him to be ready in January.

"I knew how badly smashed up he was. None of us knew the amazing will power he had put back of his effort to have his hands, arms, broken body and battered legs ready —all those hours of jogging up and down—his hour rubdowns applied by his young wife, Valerie, the work he put upon strengthening his grip.

HE COMES BACK

"He had set his soul upon being ready by the first days of 1950—he had thrown his cane away—he had cut down his supply of bandages and, when I played him before the tournament, I knew he was back. In place of a cripple I suddenly found myself facing a fellow driving 250 and 260 yards, hitting his long irons perfectly, and having full control of his short game.

"Why, on the long 17th hole during the last round of the Los Angeles Open, Hogan led the entire field for the week with a smash of 277 yards. This was five yards farther than Sammy Snead's best effort on that hole.

"It was after this game with Hogan," Middlecoff continued, "that I told you I would bet against any man in the field, but not against Hogan. Only a miracle finish by Snead tied him then. Under the conditions, 280 was about as fine golf as Ben had ever played, even when he was sound and healthy. He was playing every shot before the tournament as well as I'd ever seen him play, day after day. I knew then that it was only the matter of his legs, whether they would hold up They didn't quite. His last three rounds were 32-37; 33-36, 34-35. The last nine holes of each round was always his worst. He was tiring then."

MORE IMPORTANT MATTER

"But it hasn't been his miraculous physical recovery that has surprised me most," Middlecoff went on. "It's been his ability to lay off any kind of competition for nearly a year and return as keen as he ever was.

"Few people, even good amateur golfers, appreciate what a big tournament means and the absolute necessity for strict concentration on every shot Few who have been away from golf for a while can rebuild this concentration.

GAME NOT HURT

"For example, when Bobby Jones was away from golf after he quit active competition in 1930, his game never suffered to any extent He was still playing as much golf as ever. I recall hearing that he shot a 67 the day before his first Masters round was played After the tournament started, Bob had a tough time breaking 75 When the tournament ended, he was shooting 67 and 68 again He could never get his old concentration and dogged determination back.

"The same thing happened to Byron Nelson, when he retired or almost retired Nothing happened to his golf swing. Nothing happened to his scores—until he entered a big tournament.

"Last April Byron came to Augusta. I never saw anyone hitting the ball better. His driving was perfect. His long irons were magnificent He was putting and scoring well But when the tournament started, he jumped from 68 and 69 to 74 or 75. It was all the matter of his mental attitude, which was no longer adjusted to tough competition

"I was afraid this would happen to Ben Hogan. Ben is a grand fellow and most of us were pulling for him. I wasn't quite so sure those 67's and 68's made in practice would stand up in competition. When he shot a 73 for his first round, I was just a trifle startled. Seventy-three was very good under the conditions. But when he hooked together three 69's, all two under par, I couldn't believe it. Here was a man who had been forced to quit the game completely 11 months ago. Yet he had returned with no warmup tournament to pick up where he left off, not only in his physical swing, power and control, but also with his mental attitude adjusted to the pressure of tournament golf, in which he was desperately anxious to make good.

"When I looked at those bandaged legs and rubber stockings I wondered how he could travel on them four or five hours a day. And when I figured in all the upsetting things that hit you mentally and nervously, I wondered still more. To my way of thinking those four rounds of Hogan's at Riviera were the greatest thing I've ever seen in sport."

Remember When—

Detroit Red Wings won the decisive victory in National Hockey League history when they walloped New York Rangers 15-0 in Detroit six years ago last night. Connie Dion in the Detroit nets stopped only nine New York shots while Ken McAuley in the losers' nets made 47 saves.

Ten years ago tonight Henry Armstrong viciously pounded and stopped Pedro Montanez in nine rounds to successfully defend his world's welterweight championship in New York's Madison Square Garden. Montanez put up a gallant showing, but was forced to retire after absorbing terrific punishment from Armstrong's two-fisted attack.

Deny Charges Of Monopoly, Assail Suit

CHICAGO, Jan. 23 (INS).—Officials of the American Bowling Congress denied monopolistic charges today in Chicago and insisted that a suit seeking revocation of its charter, because of membership requirements, sets a dangerous precedent.

A.B.C. membership is limited to white males.

The denial was filed in Cook County Superior Court in answer to a suit brought by State's Attorney John S. Boyle. A.B.C. Secretary E. H. Baumgarten said the state's action was a threat to all fraternal and social groups.

BECAUSE OF BY-LAWS

Boyle asked revocation of the A.B.C. charter because its by-laws and constitution limit membership to white males

Baumgarten declared:

"If our members are denied the right to set their own membership requirements, the very foundation of the American way of life will be jeopardized. If that happens, no membership organization will be free to operate without fear of having outsiders force their way into the organization."

A.B.C. spokesmen asserted the congress is not a monopoly and declared membership is a "privilege" and not an "inalienable right."

Swim Records Registered By McGill Stars

MONTREAL, Jan. 23 (CP).—McGill University claimed five Dominion and one provincial men's swimming records following a meet here Saturday night which was aimed right at the record book.

The competition was called the Record-Breaking Attempt Swimming Meet and was held at the Montreal Y.W.C.A.

Judge was Roy Ashworth of Montreal, president of the National Canadian Amateur Swimming Association, who said the new marks would be accepted as official.

Adin Merrow, 20, shattered three Dominion records in the 440-yard backstroke event.

At the 200-yard mark, he was times for a record-breaking 2:20.5. Records also were established when he finished 220 yards in 2:34.8 and completed the whole 440 yards in 5:28.

Erwin Kopin, 20, swam to a Canadian record of 6:11.8, 8½ seconds less than the present mark, in the 440-yard breast stroke.

A member of the 1948 Canadian Olympic team, 19-year-old Peter Mingie finished the 100 yards backstroke in 1:01.6 to set a new Dominion mark. (Peter Salmon, Victoria, held the former mark of 1:02.2.)

McGill also set a Quebec provincial record of 1:06.4 in the 120-yard medley relay.

One-Armed Boxer Made Champion

GUELPH, Ont., Jan. 23 (CP).—Something new went into the books when a one-armed boxer was crowned champion of the 155-pound class at the Ontario Agricultural College intra-mural boxing show Saturday. He was Lloyd Dean, 22, of Ridgetown, Ont., who won decisions over both his opponents. Dean also plays basketball, soccer and hockey, with volleyball and bowling on the side.

During 1948 agriculture production in Ontario reached the $1,000,000,000 mark.

Better Golf

By SAM SNEAD

Hey, Fellers! Here's a "What's Wrong" picture. Any follower of this column who doesn't spot the error instantly will never get a chance at the $64 question. You're right! The glaring error here is that the player has turned his head and is looking down the course where he hopes the ball will come to rest after a long arrowy flight. But when our pictured player stopped looking at the ball before even hitting it he said farewell forever to a well played shot. Why? Because he moved one of the anchor points of the swing, namely, the head. The head must be held in a fixed position throughout the back—and downswing. You can't finish a shot from "memory." In turning the head it is almost inevitable that a player straightens up This is enough to cause a topped ball which slithers down the fairway a few yards Or the other thing can happen. By letting attention wander the swing grows loose and you take the ground back of the ball. Keep your head down in the address position until your right shoulder is passing under your chin.

Bids for Games

LONDON, Jan. 23 (AP).—Rome has put in a bid for the 1960 Olympic Games, the official bulletin of the International Olympic Committee reported today. The next Summer Olympics will be staged at Helsinki, Finland, in 1952, and the next Winter Olympics at Oslo the same year. The 1956 games have been awarded to Melbourne, Australia (Summer) and Cortina D'Ampezzo, Italy (Winter)

Joey Maxim Rated Favorite In Bout With Freddie Mills

LONDON, Jan. 23 (AP).—Britain's Freddie Mills makes the first defence of the light heavyweight championship he won 18 months ago, against Joey Maxim, clever Cleveland boxer, in Earl's Court tomorrow night.

A capacity crowd of 18,000 is assured for the 15-round battle between the hard-punching Briton and the fancy boxing American.

Despite the fact the title is being risked in Mills' home country, the bookmakers here have established the 27-year-old Maxim as a 1-to-2 favorite.

REASON FOR FAVORITISM

One reason for Maxim's favoritism is that he has been working at his trade while the 30-year-old titleholder has had only two bouts since he won the crown from Gus Lesnevich of Cliffside Park, N.J., in London, July 26, 1948.

Mills, a stocky, mauling fighter, knocked out Johnny Ralph, South African heavyweight king, in six rounds, November 6, 1948, and was flattened himself by Bruce Woodcock, the European heavyweight champion, in 14 rounds in London last June.

Maxim has had four fights since last May, winning all. He outpointed Lesnevich, stopped Joe Kahut and Pat McCafferty and defeated Bill Peterson.

The experts here give Mills little chance to win if the bout goes the full distance. But there is strong newspaper opinion that Mills will win by a knockout. This, despite Maxim's record against stronger opposition that Mills has faced over a period of years. Maxim has been stopped only once in his career—by Curtis Sheppard, in 1943. Maxim came back three weeks later to defeat Sheppard.

Both fighters wound up their training in excellent shape. Mills said he figured to scale 174—a pound under the lightweight limit—while Maxim said he would weigh 174¼.

Believes Long Hockey Season Sapping Strength of Players

HALIFAX, Jan. 23 (CP).—During the last 50 years the hockey season has been stretched from a two-month term to a sports event that takes up almost half of the sport calendar. Fans love it, but is it good for the player?

Ace (Halifax Mail-Star) Foley says that the day of the "iron man is past; his strength is sapped by so many games each year and by the unnecessary roughness."

PASSING FANCY

However, Ace hastens to say that he is not against roughness "But high-sticking and heavy boarding isn't hockey. It was a passing fancy, that's all."

Ace says that even though more players are used now than there were when hockey was in its infancy, they find it tougher now than they formerly did.

"The schedule is so much longer," he says, "the players are going well beyond their natural span. There is so much high-sticking and boarding that few players appear in more than 60 per cent of the schedule."

DEFENCE AT PEAK

The Halifax scribe says he is always one to enjoy a "good rough game" In his opinion, defensive play hits its peak back when red-hot players were dropping players all over the ice.

However, he has always been against high-sticking, and on this account he has dug his journalistic knife into the referees.

"Nowadays you hear blasts from all sections of the country, directed at the whistle-tooters.

"Maybe those who pick on the referees are right. It might be better if they cracked down more often. A player won't attempt something a bit off-color if he knows he'll draw a sentence."

Our quick turnover policy plus a big low rent location is of benefit to the people who sell to us as well as to those who buy—Thanks for your calls folks.

Minister Explains Cures Obtained Through Faith

The church is not "invading" psychology and medicine, says Rev. Dr. John Gayner Banks. It has been in those fields all the time.

The jovial Anglican clergyman arrived in the city at the week-end to guide Victorians toward health through faith. His healing mission opened at Christ Church Cathedral on Sunday, and continues until Thursday, afternoon and evening.

English-born Dr. Banks admitted that 30 persons testified they had been "healed" at his recent mission in Vancouver, and added that at least 20 cases were probably authentic.

NOT ELATED

However, he was not at all elated about it.

"Newspapers are interested in a few physical cures, but that is the least important part of our mission," he said. "The success of our mission is not how many people are healed, but how many people carry on afterwards."

Vancouver cures included relief of eye and ear ailments, and "one person who said he had had arthritis for six months told me he had complete relief after he came up to the altar."

"But I only know what people tell me."

BODY UNAFFECTED

"Physical cures do happen, but they are a by-product of a change in the personality of the patient. It does affect the body. Medicine recognizes that in psychosomatics. It's the expression in the body of the inner state of mind.

"People come up to the altar for prayer. They may obtain temporary freedom from pains, but unless something happens on the inside, they don't stay free. The pains may come back."

Factors making for health of body and mind, he said, include "faith in God, freedom from resentments toward people, a forgiving attitude and expectation of recovery."

"We think a physical ailment is the expression of something deeper."

MENTAL ILLNESS SOARING

Mental illness is soaring to major-problem proportions, he said. The church has conceded too much to physicians and psychiatrists in the field of healing, and now is resuming its place in co-operation with these practitioners, he said.

Doctors themselves acknowledge the value of spiritual therapy, Dr. Banks said. "There are psychical and spiritual factors in nearly every case, for which the physician has only a partial answer."

Dr. Banks is warden of the Fellowship of St. Luke, an organization devoted to divine healing, with headquarters in San Diego, California. Fifteen members of the order are practising physicians.

Mental ailments which may succumb to faith healing include frustrations, inhibitions, phobias and some cases of schizophrenia.

CATHEDRAL FULL

Christ Church Cathedral was full yesterday for Dr. Banks' talks, but the healing mission proper did not start until last night. Sunday's program was just a "build-up," Dr. Banks said.

He did not know whether last night's mission produced any concrete results. "People don't tell you what's happening until about the third day," he said.

School of prayer, with workshop in spiritual therapy is on every day at 3 p.m.; healing mission, every day at 8 p.m.

"This doesn't belong to the clergy alone," Dr. Banks said. "It belongs to everybody who can use it."

In England, the Archbishop of Canterbury has organized a council of eight religious denominations to direct progress of faith healing.

Veteran Actor, Alan Hale Dies

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 23 (AP).—Death has taken jovial, hearty Alan Hale, at 57 a veteran of 30 years as a motion picture actor and director.

Hale, one of the last members of the film colony who had been active in pictures since its earliest days, died last night in hospital of a virus infection complicated by a liver ailment.

ATTENDED PREMIERE

He became ill last Thursday, three days after returning from Helena, Mont., where he attended a premiere of the film, "Montana," in which he appeared. He contracted a cold there.

At his bedside when death came were his widow, Mrs. Gretchen Hale, his leading lady in silent picture days; their sons, Alan, Jr., and their daughters, Karen and Jeanne.

Hale, a 222-pound giant, appeared in more than 200 films. He played the role of Little John in both the silent, with Douglas Fairbanks, and the talkie, with Errol Flynn, versions of "Robin Hood."

PIONEER MOVIE MAKER

His first important part was in "Cowboy and the Lady" in 1912. He joined the old Lubin Company in Philadelphia and appeared in several "flickers" produced by that pioneer movie firm.

He played the villain in "The Covered Wagon" and his success was assured.

Other pictures in which he appeared include "Of Human Bondage," "Destination Tokio," "God Is My Co-Pilot," "My Wild Irish Rose," and "Cheyenne."

Hale also is well remembered for his role as a bush pilot in the film "Captains of the Clouds," a picture he made with Jimmy Cagney in 1942. Some of the scenes for the film were shot near North Bay, Ont., and Uplands Airport at Ottawa.

Set Last Rites For F. Jenner

Funeral services for Frederick Arthur Jenner, 89, of 280 Superior Street, who died at his home Sunday, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 from Chaplin's Funeral Chapel.

Mr. Jenner was one of the few surviving men who served in the Riel Rebellion. He later became manager of the Hudson's Bay Company at Fort Qu'Appelle, Sask., a post he held until 1918. He lived in Regina for 21 years before coming to Victoria 11 years ago.

Born in Brighton, England, Mr. Jenner is survived by one son, Thomas, of Princeton, B.C.; and two daughters, Mrs. D. W. Spencer, 3151 Glasgow Avenue, and Miss Emily at home. A brother, S. Morley, lives at home, and a sister, Mrs. A. Presgrave, in Toronto.

Archdeacon J. K. Irwin will officiate.

Operators Seeking Oil Over Large Area of B.C.

Fifty operators are exploring or drilling for oil in various parts of British Columbia, Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney said yesterday in a review of the unusual interest being shown in British Columbia's potentiality as a major oil producer.

Up to the end of January twenty permits, covering 1,945,000 acres, were issued to companies wishing to make geological surveys.

Two permits covering 432,000 acres were issued to allow seismographic explorations while 18 licences have been granted permitting drilling for oil over 23,047 acres.

BIG ACREAGE

Permits and licences together total 2,412,000 acres.

In addition, the department of lands still has 22 applications under consideration.

Mr. Kenney stressed that exploration and drilling operations are scattered throughout the Province—in the Peace River district, in the Cariboo at Quesnel, on the Queen Charlotte and Gulf Islands in the Fraser Valley and throughout the Flathead country (the Kootenays).

He said several encouraging reports had been received from those in the field.

Court Rejects Lapp's Appeal

Judge H. H. Shandley yesterday turned down the appeal of Richard Lapp, Whittier Avenue, bus driver, from his conviction and $15 fine for speeding on Douglas Street.

Switch Appeal To Vancouver

The appeal of Gordon Martin, University of British Columbia Law School graduate, against the decision of the benchers of the B.C. Law Society refusing to call him to the bar because he is a Communist, won't be heard in Victoria after all.

The appeal, originally scheduled to be heard here by the Appeal Court in its Autumn sitting, was switched to the Vancouver sitting of the court before Christmas.

At that sitting it was sent back here for the current sitting, and yesterday, on application of both counsel in the case it has been shuttled back to Vancouver again to be heard the first day of Appeal Court sittings there in March.

Esquimalt's share of operating the home this year will be $279, compared with $240 last year.

DISCUSS DRAINAGE

Improvement of drainage on Old Esquimalt Road to Ellery Street and Head Street south from Old Esquimalt Road will be considered when estimates are discussed by council. Drainage on other streets also will be investigated.

"If these streets are to be considered in the general road program for this year it might be in order to put in the drainage at the earliest possible time," advised Edmund Fulcher, superintendent of works. "In both of these streets it is almost impossible to keep the existing facilities clear, and a great deal of money is wasted attempting to do so."

Three Carlisle Street residents wrote to the council complaining of flooding, but Reeve Thomas explained that the work is already planned and would have been completed but for unfavorable weather conditions.

Award Contract To Construct Bank Building

A contract to construct the new Bank of Toronto office building at Yates and Broad Streets was awarded to the Parfitt Construction Co. Ltd., it was announced yesterday.

The new building, which will cost approximately $150,000, will be a one-story concrete structure with a 40-foot frontage on Yates Street and 75-foot frontage on Broad.

Demolition of the present building will be started as soon as the weather permits. A temporary office will be built adjacent the site. This building will later be converted into a store.

POLISHED GRANITE BASE

The new building will be faced with Haddington Island stone with polished granite base and window trim. The banking hall will be 20 feet high with acoustic tile ceiling and chrome-plated bronze frames on the windows. The main vestibule will have marble floor and walls. A concealed fluorescent lighting system will be installed. A full basement will contain staff restrooms, furnace and storerooms.

Reinforced concrete vaults will be installed on both basement and ground floors

Esquimalt Request Fails

Underwriters Reject Bid To Cut Insurance Rates

Esquimalt Council's request for a reduction in fire insurance rates has been rejected by the British Columbia Underwriters' Association, Councillor O. R. Guillemaud, chairman of the fire and light committee, reported last night.

"We have reviewed the municipality's fire fighting facilities and due to the very substantial increase in population since our last regrading in 1947 we are unable at present to make any further reduction in the existing insurance rates," wrote D. J. Ford, engineer for the B.C.U.A.

NO MAJOR IMPROVEMENTS

While additional hydrants have been installed in various locations Mr. Ford said there has been no major improvement to supply mains or the distribution system with the exception of an eight-inch main on Fraser Street

(According to recommendations by the traveling unit of the Fire Marshal's office, Esquimalt's eight-man combined police and fire department should have a minimum of 25 firemen.)

"We strongly recommend that increases be made in personnel with consideration being given to formation of a paid-on-call fire department as an auxiliary to the regular paid men. The latter should be increased so that at least two paid men are on each shift," stated Mr. Ford.

The engineer said there seems at the present time to be no adequate method of calling off-shift firemen in the event of a fire and he strongly recommended that consideration be given to installing a siren so that the man on duty at the fire hall can call paid-on-call and off-shift firemen with a minimum of delay.

Dealing with Esquimalt's building by-law, the engineer pointed that there are no adequate fire limits established in high value or mercantile districts.

Instructors of the traveling fire unit reported that the municipality's firemen are keen and competent.

"Esquimalt is unique in that personnel have a dual capacity of being policemen and firemen. However, no matter how good a man may be he can only be in one place at a time. It is our opinion that the personnel is inadequate and the exposure too great at certain times," wrote the unit officials

After Councillor Guillemaud said the council couldn't possibly implement the recommendations, council took no action.

Fresh Fish Scarce As Cold Snap Stays

—Marine News—

Continued cold weather has brought about a fresh fish shortage in Victoria, according to James Dunn, manager of B.C. Packers Ltd.

He said that fishing was virtually at a standstill as fishermen were unable to operate their gear due to freezing temperatures.

"Nets and trolling equipment freezes solid as soon as it comes in contact with cold air," he said, "and as a result fishermen are staying in port until there is a break in the weather."

WHITING, SOLE

Whiting and sole are the main fish affected, according to Mr. Dunn, but shellfish are also in short demand.

Jack Todd, manager of J. H. Todd & Sons Limited, said that shipments of fresh clams to the United States have been seriously curtailed due to freezing temperatures.

"Clams will live up to three days under normal conditions," he said, "but once they have been frozen they are no good.

Clams are dug at low tide but before they can be picked up and shipped they are frozen solid in current low temperatures

Oysters, however, are not seriously affected by frost and can be harvested even in freezing temperatures.

Mr. Dunn, however, said that the supply was none too good as some diggers did not relish the work in cold weather.

Cold storage firms have troubles of their own trying to keep their products at a constant temperature so they will not spoil.

"One of our chief difficulties has been to keep the vegetable cold storage lockers at a high enough temperature to stop the vegetables from freezing," Mr. Dunn said.

Temperature of the locker is normally kept at 34 degrees.

Full directions, including reduced dosages for children, are given with every bottle and when taken as directed Lantigen "B" will help to bring welcome relief from the discomforts of Catarrh, Sinusitis and common types of Bronchial Asthma and Bronchitis. Magistrate Suspends Sentence

Amount of Work by Court Officials Comes to Light as Girl Given Aid

Some of the behind-the-scenes helpful work done by the court was observed in city police court yesterday when Magistrate H. C. Hall was sentencing a young woman who had pleaded guilty to a charge of attempting to committ suicide.

"We have been able to find a suitable home for you and have prospects of a job," Magistrate Hall informed the tearful woman who had tried to kill herself in a local hotel by taking an overdose of aspirin last week.

(Although court officials are reluctant to publicize this little-known part of their work, such endeavors are going on at all times. A considerable amount of the work is done amongst young people who are straightened out by the very persons they feared most.

The magistrate told the woman her actions were very wrong. He made her promise to behave and to report to the probation officer for six months before giving her a suspended sentence.

FINED

William Frederick Ricketts, 2830 Park View, pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to report an accident to police within 24 hours and was fined $25.

City Prosecutor Claude L. Harrison told the magistrate the accused was the driver of a rented car which November 22 struck a parked car on Hollywood Crescent. He said Ricketts left town the next day and told police on his return he didn't report the accident because he was scared.

Albert Woods, charged with threatening his wife on January 30, pleaded not guilty and was remanded to Thursday for trial. Bail was set at $500.

"If you don't shut up, I'll bash your head through a window," it is charged Woods said to his wife.

THEFT CHARGE

Pleading guilty to a charge of stealing $2.30 from six parking meters early yesterday morning, James Littlejohn Howie, aged 18, was remanded to Wednesday for a probation officer report.

When arrested by Constable Harry Hoshal, the city prosecutor said the accused had a screwdriver in his possession and a quantity of nickels and pennies.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE

A man charged with attempting to commit suicide was remanded to Wednesday without plea. He is represented by James J. Proudfoot.

WITHDRAWN

A charge of failing to pay a janitor a minimum wage against George Randal, 1300 Douglas Street, was withdrawn by the magistrate. The city prosecutor said the request for withdrawal had come from the deputy minister of labor.

REMAND

Frank Barera, charged with stealing an overcoat and suit was remanded to this morning without plea. The magistrate set bail at $1,000.

DRIVING CHARGES

Trial of William Mais, 1803 Cook Street, charged with careless driving after an accident involving a pedestrian October 6, will go on February 1. The accident occurred on Fort Street near Broad Street.

Case of Edward Williams, 724 Yates Street, who has pleaded not guilty to a dangerous driving charge, will continue Wednesday. Williams was charged after an accident at the intersection of Queens Avenue and Douglas Street November 16. Elderly pedestrian, Mrs. Mary McLean, 785 Queens Avenue, was injured in the collision.

Air-Letter Card
From New Zealand

Just received an Airmail letter from the kid brother who is in Auckland, N.Z., with the British Empire Games.

Dear Slaves,

Basking in the warm southern sun, working hard . . . but it's lots of fun. "June in January" . . . is the name of a song, & down here brother . . . that ain't wrong. The people here . . . are REALLY folks, even tho . . . they call us "blokes." To show us friendship . . . they really strive, with luncheons . . . tours . . . & many a drive. They remember how Canada . . . treated THEIR Air-men, in sport they are all . . . truly fair-men. They've given every help, as we train, & NO advantage . . . have they tried to gain. The competition we face . . . is really keen, in fact as good . . . as I've ever seen. But if we DON'T win . . . too many first places, we'll give all we have . . . in matching paces. The money angle is quite a fooler, 'cause you can't figure it . . . from a "dooler" (Guess he means dollar). It's pennies this . . . & thrupence that, till you don't know where . . . just where you're at. I visited a furniture store today, to see what . . . I'd have to pay. If anywhere near . . . OUR warehouse price, & the stuff I saw . . . was rather nice. It was different of course in style & cut, the suites all built for a smaller hut. But when I asked the man "how much," his answer to me was sorely Dutch. He said "that chair . . . in the corner there, is 4 and 6 . . . if U take the pair." When I asked "how much" down I could pay, he replied, "well . . . if you buy THAT way. Your down payment is one & three, & the interest we can't . . . give you free. So that will be 1% of 3 and 3, and the balance per month . . . now let me see". But at THAT point . . . I staggered out, my mind a whirl . . . as I turned about. So I don't know . . . & I can't report, whether in this N.Z. sea-port. The prices are lower than HUMBER'S low, all I know . . . it's funny dough.".

P.S. The above may be used by permission of the copyright owner. I am having a swell time, and working hard . . . hope you are too. I hope the sales are up . . . and the inventory low . . . the store is clean . . . and Auntie Babs not too punchy keeping all those figures. (With a figure like hers . . ., she shouldn't oughta be.) Is the coffee on (what would I do for a good cup of coffee would plunk us all in the house-gow). I hope adjustments are few, and that you all miss me . . . and now I have to quit, or this will cost me a crown, instead of 6 or 8 pence . . . I give up . . . South Sea Island fever has got me. Your ever lovin' . . . Brucie.

Judges Say Norma Plumb Cutest in Victoria College

NORMA Plumb is the cutest girl in Victoria College. At least that's the opinion of three judges picked on the spot in the college auditorium yesterday to choose a winner from 15 contestants in a beauty contest staged by The Martlet, the college newspaper.

The judges, Jon Woods, Dick Vogel and Prof. G. G. McOrmond, first narrowed the field down to four contestants, Shirley Waite, Pat Sparks, Jill Tremblay and Miss Plumb before naming Miss Plumb college queen.

The crowded auditorium got its biggest laugh of the afternoon when John Shipley, six-foot-two student, strutted on stage in a polka dot suit representing "Miss Normal School, 1950."

Dudley Coddington was master of ceremonies for the program that ended with refreshments and a skit, "Love Through the Ages."

Boy, Once Crippled, Helps Little Friends in Solarium

A little Victoria boy, who once was crippled and now is well, has given all his wealth to help his fellow-patients walk again.

Six-year-old David, who returned recently to his parents in Victoria completely cured of osteomyelitis of the hip after four years in Queen Alexandra Solarium for Crippled Children, spotted a picture in Thursday's Colonist.

"That's Brian and Michael," he cried, pointing to two smiling youngsters with braces on their legs. One was "walking" in a strange chair-like contraption.

"Why, yes," said his mother. "Brian's using your old walker."

"It's not my walker," David answered. "It belongs to everybody. Why are Brian and Michael in the paper?"

WANT MONEY

"They want money to help Brian and Michael get well, so they can come home to their mother and father like you did."

David ran to his bank, got a shiny new quarter he had been given for a Christmas present, and put it in his mother's hand.

"That's for Brian and Michael," he said.

Solarium Junior League hopes that thousands of other Victorians will be as generous as David in their contribution to the Solarium's "Shower of Dimes."

To meet mounting expenses and provide expensive, long-term and expert medical care, thousands of dollars are needed, but every dime helps.

Bar Accepts New Lawyer

Clarence Cooper, graduate of the University of Toronto and Osgoode Hall Law School, was admitted to the British Columbia bar here yesterday after practising since 1936 in Ontario.

He is associated with the British Columbia Government Forestry Department.

He was called and admitted yesterday before Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane in Supreme Court, after introduction by W. H. M. Haldane, a bencher of the B.C. Law Society.

Mr. Justice Macfarlane, speaking during the short ceremony, observed that experience in any other field of work was valuable to lawyers.

New Branch of Chamber Seeks City Industries

A newly-formed bureau of the Chamber of Commerce has announced plans for intensifying efforts to lure new industries to Victoria.

It is the industrial bureau, headed by W. C. Mearns, operations manager of the B.C. Electric, who has appointed a strong four-man committee to carry out a program designed to encourage new industry to establish in Victoria.

The four-man committee, headed by Mr. Mearns, includes: Logan Mayhew, of the Sidney Roofing Company; A. Baillie, of Felt & Textiles Ltd.; A. Cowts, of Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway, and Thomas Denny, of Standard Furniture Ltd.

The new bureau has already received several inquiries from potential city industries. The special committee will meet every other week to further plans for encouraging establishment of the new businesses.

Special attention will be directed towards the textile industry which preliminary investigations have shown to be particularly suitable for this area.

Loggers' Battle Described

States Jury Misinformed During Trial on Killing

How two loggers grappled on the ground with a rifle jammed between them was explained here yesterday in Appeal Court where one of the loggers was appealing his conviction and death sentence for murder of the other.

Tension in the court reached a climax early in the appeal when William Bamber, court clerk, was called upon to produce the death weapon as an exhibit.

SHELL STILL IN GUN

"Be careful where you point that gun," shouted H. A. Maclean, assistant deputy attorney-general, jumping to his feet.

"Is it loaded?" he was asked from the bench.

"There's still a shell jammed in the gun," Mr. Maclean explained. He said no one knew whether or not the shell was live. Evidence at the appeal was that the gun had been smashed against a stump and broken by another logger immediately after the fatal shooting.

The condemned logger, Erik Valfred Backstrom, sat gaunt-faced and hollow-eyed in the court silently watching William A. Schultz, the young Vancouver lawyer assigned to conduct the destitute logger's appeal.

CLAIMED ERRORS

Mr. Schultz told the court the appeal would be pressed on seven major grounds all arising out of claimed errors and omissions in Mr. Justice A. M. Manson's instructions to the Cranbrook Assize jury that found Backstrom guilty of murdering Rudolph Stoller.

Outlining events that led up to the fatality, Mr. Schultz told of an all-night drinking spree during which Backstrom had told another logger to warn Stoller that Backstrom would shoot him for alleged theft of a hunting knife and rifle.

When Backstrom's warning was passed to Stoller at breakfast the morning of the killing, all the loggers laughed when Stoller replied: "I'll choke him before he has a chance to shoot me," Mr. Schultz went on.

At noon that day, while Backstrom was continuing his drinking, evidence was that Stoller went to Backstrom's cabin, then was seen running out from it, followed afterwards by Backstrom, clutching a rifle.

While Backstrom was asking another logger where Stoller was, Mr. Schultz said, Stoller crept up behind Backstrom, knocked him to the ground and began applying a head-lock and choking him.

He said Stoller was 34 years old and of an athletic build. He described Backstrom as 53 years old and pointed out his slight build.

He said Crown witnesses disagreed about the time of the fatal shot which resulted at some stage during the struggle between the two men.

Mr. Schultz argued that the judge had never properly instructed the jury on the intent that was necessary for a murder conviction. He also said the judge's charge took away from the jury the task of deciding whether or not there was provocation and the chance to return a lesser verdict of manslaughter.

The appeal will continue today.

Manager of Office Faces Tug Charges

NANAIMO, Jan. 23.—Louis Harold Kendler, office manager for the Nanaimo Towing Co., appeared in court, Monday morning, faced with three charges of forgery and the possibility that 25 other charges amounting to more than $7,000 will be laid.

The charges read involved sums of money totalling $443.11, but V. O. Meakin in opposing Kendler's request for bail, said that the 25 charges to come would amount to $7,396, and there might be other charges of forgery and theft. Bail of $10,000 was proposed by Mr. Meakin, who appeared for the complainant, Capt. W. Figgs. Magistrate Beevor-Potts fixed the bail at $7,500, with at least two sureties.

The accused told the court he had his home here, was married, and had no intention of skipping out. Mr. Meakin said Kendler made frequent visits to the United States.

Kendler has had full responsibility of the office of the Nanaimo Towing Co. The complainant alleges that cheques were issued by means of payroll padding. Accused was remanded to January 31.

Indian at Nanaimo Gets Five Years, Lashes for Armed Robbery

NANAIMO, Jan. 23.—Leslie John, an Indian, who pleaded guilty in police court to three charges of armed robbery and one of robbery, was sentenced on Monday by Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts to serve five years in the penitentiary and receive ten strokes of the paddle.

John was armed following the recent holdup of Watson's Grocery. The case clears up a number of robberies dating back to 1946. Constable Arthur Vickers of the Provincial Police, Nanaimo, spent two days and nights on duty to bring John to trial.

The charges included armed robbery of the Bright Spot, Hallinan Street, on May 18, 1949, when $100 was obtained at the point of a rifle; armed robbery of the Manor & Shaw Store at Chase River, October 6, 1948, when $60 was taken; armed robbery of the Wander Inn, May 7, 1948, when $40 was taken; and the Watson robbery last week when $6 was stolen.

John is known as a "bad Indian" when under the influence of liquor, and Corporal Vickers told the court that liquor seemed to be his downfall. The magistrate said the public must be protected. Someone might have been killed had they resisted.
